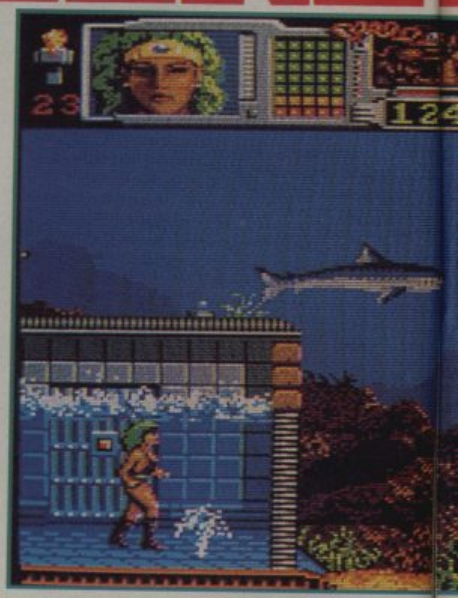
KONIX HERE

The long-awaited addition to the swelling consoles market has just about arrived. From October, the Konix Multisystem, which could possibly be the best home games machine yet, will be in stores across the nation priced at just over £200. Paul had a Glancey at the machine...



INCREDIBLE SPEC

On paper at least, the Konix wipes the floor with every other console, and some of its features even put the wind up powerful 16 bit home computers such as the Amiga and ST. Check out the specifications box below and you'll see that for the price, it's technical specification is outstanding.

State of the art custom circuitry put the Multisystem's graphics and sound capabilities beyond even the Amiga. Like the Amiga, the Konix has a Blitter chip which can shift large graphics around the screen at speed, but unlike the Amiga, the Konix hardware can mix sprites and vector graphics with equal ease making it even more flexible from the programmers' point of view.

The machine is equally well catered for sonically. The audio hardware provides high quality 25 channel stereo sonics on a par with Yamaha's DX-7 synth! Of course you can listen to the Konix through the TV, or, even better, you can plug headphones or a stereo amplifier straight into the jack socket on the back of the machine.

SHAKE, RATTLE AND ROLL

What puts the Konix Multisystem even further ahead of the field are its vast range of control options. A micro-switched Konix Navigator joystick comes with the package, but even more exciting is the innovative analogue steering controller which can adapt itself to suit three different game types.

For burnin' up the highway on a motorbike, the controller can become a pair of handlebars, but twist the ends of the handlebars up and you have a yoke, perfect for flight simulation or Afterburner-style games. You can also clip a plastic steering wheel over the yoke - plug in the supplied foot pedals and you have the ultimate driving experience! For even more realism, the controller has solenoids inside it, giving it the ability to shake in your hands should you drive over rough ground or nose-dive into a runway.

However you configure the controller, two independent fire buttons always fall easily under your thumbs and on the right of the console, there's an analogue lever which can double up as a throttle or a gear shift, or indeed anything else Konix programmers can dream up.

NOT THE COMFY CHAIR

Other hardware add-ons on the horizon include a light gun with recoil action and rapid fire machine gun mode, which will sell for around £40, and the much heralded Space Harrier-style hydraulic chair. This luxury item will cost just over £200, but should be the most fun piece of hardware ever devised for a home system. There are even plans for a plug-in exercise bike for fitness-conscious gamers to ride into the sun- set. Who says computer games are bad for your health?

THE GAMES

With such amazing hardware, many software producers have expressed interest in producing software for the Multisystem. Last month we told you about Llamasoft's superb Attack of the Mutant Camels, and Hammerfist from Visual Image, but Konix are hoping to launch at least 20 titles alongside the machine when it is released. Here we have pictures of Last Ninja II from System 3 and Star Ray from Logotron - two conversions, both of which easily match their home computer counterparts in quality.

At the moment there's no news of any arcade conversions for the machine - strange really, considering its specifications it sounds an ideal machine to convert coin-ops to.

Konix software will come on pirate-proof 3.5" 880K disks which just slot into the built-in drive, as well as cartridge, and will cost between £15 and £20. If the Multisystem gets the software support it deserves, it has the potential to be a real world beater. Keep watching the mag - we'll be keeping you posted...

JOYSTICKS ENTER FOURTH DIMENSION

Special guest star in the C+VG New Joysticks Spot this month is Fourth Dimension's Rapier. It's a chunky beast, designed for table-top stability rather than hand-held comfort, and even though the Rapier shuns those oh-so passe micro-switched movement mechanisms, it remains remarkably responsive (it's become a firm favourite of C+VG joystick jocks, Paul and Jaz). The fire buttons (which are microswitched) are so sensitive that Fourth Dimension reckon the addition of an autofire switch would be superfluous. Its steel shaft and rugged construction mean it'll survive even the longest Daley Thompson Runs A Long Way session with even the craziest waggler at the helm.

At £14.95 (RRP) it'd be great VFM, but to you, the C+VG reader, Mr Jones is prepared to let them go at a for an extra special introductory offer price of only £12.95 (inc p+p)! So, if you feel the need for a brilliant traditional stick that'll last for donkey's years, send a cheque payable to Fourth Dimension Computing Ltd to Fourth Dimension C+VG Stick Offer, Fourth Dimension Computing, Unit N, Lon Las Workshops, Skewen, West Glamorgan, SA10 6RP.

SATELLITE TELLY

Broadsword, the team that brought you ITV's award-winning fantasy RPG, Knightmare, are now working on a new TV show for screening next year on British Satellite Broadcasting. Appropriately enough, the programme is called The Satellite Game, and is set inside the Enigma, a huge computerised bomb orbiting the Earth. Teams of three players guide a robot called Larry into Enigma, solving the problems it sets in an attempt to convince it that there is intelligent life on Earth and blowing everyone up would be a pretty bad move.

Like Knightmare, The Satellite Game makes heavy use of computer graphics. The sets are all produced on a mega graphics computer, and at certain points in the game, the players get a 3D view through Larry's photosensors. This bit has been designed by that esteemed softco, Incentive and uses their Freescape system to provide full perspective views of the Enigma's innards.

So, if you reckon you could put together a team of three 11-16 year olds to take on the Enigma challenge, Broadsword want to hear from you. Write for an application form to Broadsword TV Productions, Anglia TV, Anglia House, Norwich, NR1 3JG.

IT'S SHOW-TIME!!

It's that PC Show time of the year again, and across the nation things are proceeding apace for this industry mega-event. Venue for the show is once again Earls Court, and Joe Public can get in on Saturday the 30th of September and Sunday the 1st of October, for the princely sum of 3.50.

Who's going to be there? Well, there's the whole mad-dog bunch of us for a start! Even Andrea "The Knife" Walker has promised to be there, on the condition that she gets a separate booth to sell autographs and kisses from.

Amongst the main attractions will be the usual whopper of an Ocean stand, which is guaranteed to be packed with coin-ops. They'll be showing off their conversions of Chase HQ, Cabal and Operation Thunderbolt, as well as Batman (yay!), Beach Volleyball, Lost Patrol, Ivanhoe and F-29 Retaliator (previewed this ish).

Coin-op converters Activision are also planning to pack their stand with recent arcade licenses. Expect to find (m)any of the following: Galaxy Force, Power Drift, Altered Beast, and their two latest signings, Atomic Robo Kid and Ninja Spirit - all on free play!

Coin-ops in large quantities will also be making an appearance on US Gold's stand. They were loathe to give away details, but a spokesperson promised that the stand design would be something very different - "it'll be well worth visiting", they say.

Virgin Mastertronic are also planning a massive stand, with a 16-screen video wall on which they will be showing off their upcoming releases. As well as being able to check out the latest Sega games (and play the Super Monaco Grand Prix and Power Drift coin-ops), you should also be able to see the conversions of Shinobi, Ninja Warriors, Double Dragon II and Continental Circus.

GAZZA'S FOOTAH

Who's this cheeky young son of a striker? Why, it's Paul "Gazza" Gascoigne of course, star of Tottenham Hotspur FC and now of Empire's upcoming footy game, which goes under the well-sophiss title of Gazza's Super Soccer. Apparently, what distinguishes it from the multitude of similar games is the control method, which lets the player take free kicks and other set pieces as well as choose which team member he's controlling off the ball. A Boot-o-meter even gives you control over the spin your foot is applying to the ball! And in spite of all this, Empire claim the game's joystick control will be "rather simple and intuitive". Goodness! How will they manage it? Full story - next month.

When a game is reviewed, we give ratings for five different criteria:

GRAPHICS
Does the game look good? Is the scrolling smooth? Are the sprites flickery? Is the animation realistic? This mark covers all visual aspects of the game.

SOUND
Sound and music that enhance a game are given high marks. The sound rating is low if the soundtrack or effects are inappropriate.

VALUE
Here, we take into consideration the price of the game, the amount of entertainment it offers and the quality of the packaging. In other words - is it worth the money.

PLAYABILITY
This tells you how addictive and enjoyable the game is - the higher the rating is, the more playable the game is.

OVERALL
The most important rating of all. This is what we think of the game as a whole, taking into consideration all the other ratings. In short, how good the game really is.

THE MARKS

85+
A C+VG HIT! An outstanding game that shouldn't be missed.

70-85
A very good game that missed out on a higher accolade due to minor discrepancies. Should definitely be tried, though.

55-69
Average to fairly good. Could still appeal to fans of the genre.

40-55
Below average to average. Generally a disappointment.

15-39
Generally a poor game that mightn't even appeal to the most ardent fans.

14-
Ugh! Binary sewage that's guaranteed to make your computer throw up.

BATMAN

▼ Dodging bullets on the bat-rope.

Batman is surely one of THE biggest movies of all time. It's everywhere. And now you can even play the role of the caped crusader himself and battle the evil Joker in the dark and grimy streets of a computerised Gotham city!

Batman the Movie is Ocean's third Bat-game, the previous two being licensed from the DC comics. It follows the plot of the film very closely, with five levels adapted directly from scenes in the movie. The first level is a multidirectionally scrolling platform game set in the massive Axis chemical factory. The objective is to reach the end of the level and confront Jack Napier, the leader of the villains, and dispose of him.

Between you and him are a myriad of hazard-packed screens. Steam jets shoot out from broken pipes, acid drips from the ceiling and marauding baddies open fire with pistols - all wear down Batman's energy, and he only has three bat-lives.

Batman is armed with a baterang and batrope which he can fire at the roof and hoist himself up to the next screen, or use to swing across gaps in the factory floor. He can even fire it at enemies and knock them out, rather than having to engage in a fist-fight at close range.

Level two puts you behind the wheel of the batmobile as you race down a heavily congested horizontally scrolling road and attempt to escape from the Joker's van. Every so often you have to take a sharp left turn by either slowing down and skidding around the bend, or by extending the bat-hook to catch a lamp post and swing you round the corner at top speed (timing is crucial for this move - miss and you smash into the wall). Fail to turn when indicated and you crash into a police roadblock.

▼ Swinging through the Axis factory. Where's that Joker?

The third level is a mini puzzle game. The Joker has poisoned three household items, and you have one minute to work out which of the ten are deadly through a process of elimination, rather like the old board game, Mastermind.

Sort out the poison, and it's time to fly the Batwing. Gotham City carnival is in progress, but little do the onlookers know that the Joker has filled the balloons attached to the floats with nerve gas. Batman knows though, and has to fly the Batwing down the scrolling main street and cut the balloon strings so that the balloons fly harmlessly away. Miss balloons, or run into them and energy is lost.

The final confrontation takes place in the Cathedral, which is a similar platform-type game to level one. Again the map is vast, and tracking down the Joker takes time, as well as a little cartography. I'm not going to tell you what you have to do at the end, 'cos that'll ruin the film if you haven't already seen it.

To be honest, Ocean could have produced a mediocre Bat-game and it still would have sold well on the strength of the film alone. But they haven't. Batman is a superb game, and captures the atmosphere and excitement of the movie perfectly with five challenging levels.

The graphics and sound on both the Spectrum and C64 versions are excellent, and the gameplay is highly addictive, with enough variety to satisfy the most demanding Batfans.

Batman is definitely the best film tie-in yet - if you enjoyed the film, make sure you don't miss the game.

By popular demand... YOB's Mailbag gets even bigger! Yes, since you readers are sending in so many letters, we thought it was only fair to expand the section to include even more of your stuff. If you've got anything interesting to say, be they questions, complaints, jokes, silly things, sensible things... or even have pics or cartoons, send 'em in to YOB'S MAILBAG, C+VG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON EC1R 3AU. There's a whopper bag of software and a T-shirt on offer for the best letter of the month, as well as mini goodie bags for the best of the rest... What are you waiting for - get writing. Or YOB'll smash your head in.

COMPUTING ANIMALS SHOCK

Dear YOB, I am writing with some urgency and concern after reading the letter by the Oric user. This letter highlights the fact that many animals (especially the canine breeds) are getting involved in computing. Too many animals these days are turning into computer junkies. Let me point out some startling facts...

1. After the stock market crash, 4,000 dogs in New York alone were found dead below their penthouse windows after committing suicide. In most cases an open "Financial Times" was found in their apartments.

2. Over 25% of dogs are hooked on computing, and as a result of this they are not going out, socialising or mating. This in turn is reducing the dog population dramatically, and lamp-posts are drying up.

I would like to offer some advice to pet owners:

A: Never let your animal play the computer for more than 36 hours a week. Instead, encourage him to go in for water skiing, hockey and ice skating.

B: Never feed him after midnight, or let him near water (WHOOPS!, wrong script).

So... animal lovers. Be warned.

Bryan Masterson, RSPCA, Limerick Branch.

YOB: Don't worry. The men in white coats are on their way.

IT'S NOT ACE

Dear YOB, I recently read a magazine different to C+VG (which is the best). It was the computer mag ACE, which is totally rubbish. It had a review of Sega's new game The Baseball. It was almost exactly the same as C+VG's and guess why? Julian (JAZ) Rignall reviewed it. He's a traitor, so get rid of him quick before ACE get to know about your mega ideas.

Matthew Ridgway, Lichfield, Staffs.

YOB: It was blackmail. Garry Williams, who is now Ad Manager on ACE, told Jaz that if he didn't do a couple of reviews for them, he'd come and sit on him. And since that's a fate worse than death, he just couldn't refuse...

GO CARTING

Dear YOB, I own a Commodore 64 and an Atari 65XE. I was wondering if cartridges ever existed for the Commodore? If so why have I never seen them and why is there a cartridge slot out the back of the computer?

I also was wondering why there aren't very many games for the Atari 65XE. There are only a few software companies that cater for this computer like Zeppelin, Atlantis and Bug Byte, which produce rubbish games anyway. Can you tell me why this is? Surely it isn't that unpopular. Can you print more information on the Atari 65XE?

Socroch Clements, Windsor, Berks.

YOB: About seven games on cartridge were manufactured for the Commodore 64 when it first came out back in 1983, but since tapes are far cheaper and easier to produce, software houses opted for this media very soon after, and C64 cartridges never appeared again. The Atari 65XE is compatible with all normal Atari 8-bit computer software, and there's plenty of games available for it on both cartridge and tape. The best people to speak to are Silica Shop in Sidcup, Kent. Call them on 01 300 3399 and somebody should be able to help you track down some new games.

KUNG-FU CRAZY

Dear YOB, "Kung-fu Crazy - Shinobi"! Are the C+VG team, crazy? Saying Ninjas do kung-fu - aaargh! Ninja's do Ninjitsu from which the word Ninja comes from. It takes no genius to work that out does it?

Julian Rignall said, "Shinobi... a repertoire of kung-fu moves". He had better watch his words or he will find a shuriken embedded in his skull! Mind you, his MAD suggestions might come from playing Yie Ar Kung Fu which has Shuriken, Tonfas, Nunstrucas, etc in it. If so please tell me. If not he had better apologise (or the guys between Yie Ar Kung Fu) to me and Sega!

Paul "I've got to meditate or I'll go insane" S, Halifax, West Yorkshire.

YOB: Come, come, Grasshopper. Julian used "kung-fu" generically, since everyone understands what kung-fu is. If he started rabbiting on about Ninjitsu, nobody, apart from you Ninjas out there, would have understood what he was talking about.

WRONG SHOTS

Dear YOB, In your last issue you had the Bombjack II screen shot where the Infiltrator screen shot should have been and vice versa (was this a secret comp?).

Barry Allan, Ayrshire, Scotland.

YOB: Yes, it was a comp and you win a guilt-plated no-prize which will be teleported to you when teleporters are invented. Now go and do something more constructive...

SEGA COMPATIBILITY

Dear YOB, I am writing to tell you that I am thinking of buying a 16 bit mega drive. But what I would really like to know is, can I use the Light Phaser and the 3D glasses on the new 16 bit mega drive, because me and many more of my mates would like to know.

Damon Stuchbury, Horwich, Bolton.

YOB: Well, you and many more of your mates will be disappointed to hear that you can't.

DEFENDING EUROPE

Dear YOB, Regarding your suggestions in the July issue of the latest greatest, and stonkingly fantabulous C+VG mag, I have decided to write to you and give you my strongest views about English programmers, so here goes:-

1. Our software is usually the most original judging by the quality of other countries games.
2. It's our programmers that set the standards.
3. The Americans (with their 'lil ole games) don't even give us a run for our money (unless we're running away, that is!).
4. The Japanese write jolly good games, but unfortunately their characters (written ones) tend to get in the way, either on screen or in the instructions!
5. Mr Johnsen, Norway, deserves a smack across the legs for his insult to our chaps. "Moron games", ha! It's people on the continent that ruin our software market by hacking and ripping us off like crazy!!!
6. As for Europe, at least we don't come up with such little gems as Virus Construction Kit".

Maybe if we work together, the combined powers of British and European programmers would be used to create a "Eurogame" - then look out Yankees!

James Padmore, Southwell, Nottinghamshire.

YOB: I wouldn't say that UK stuff is the most original - look at all the licensed stuff out there - but UK programmers are certainly capable of producing excellent original ideas. Japanese software is great - their conversions are always top-notch. You can't really put them down for occasionally using their own language in their games, can you? As for the hacking problem in Europe, I have very strong opinions on this. Pirates are the festering carbunkle on the bottom of the computer industry. It's illegal and it stinks, and there's nothing that can be said to justify it. Pirates write to me at their own risk...

WHAT????

Dear YOB, I'll get straight to the point, why is it on every competition you never anywhere on the page print an address to send it to. So please could you print the address from now on.

P J Sturgess, Irthlingborough, Northants.

YOB: There is always an address on every competition page you twit. Perhaps if we printed it in braille, you'd be able to read it?

AGE OF AQUARIUS

Dear C+VG, Since our last letter we have upgraded from the Oric and are now proud owners of an Aquarius (which we found at our local church rummage sale) - a snip at 2500 including tape deck and five free games. The last owner, a dyslexic nun, told us how she learnt to spell on it with the help of its marvellous rubber keys. We are currently having trouble learning the subtle complexities of Aquarius BASIC as the FOR... NEXT loop commands are causing us a great deal of bother. Perhaps the Aquarius owning public could help us out?

Anyroad, the reason we have written again is to complain about a letter from Mr James Clark (issue 93) concerning the lack of coverage of "old" computers. We believe Mr Clak must be a complete no hoper not to have noticed the amount of cavemen-owning ZX81's still getting great enjoyment writing blockbuster

DIY SUICIDE

Dear YOB, I'm writing in to tell you all you stonkworthy C+VG readers about a few DIY projects to try on your micro, but before that I would like to congratulate Sir Clive on his best creation, the ZX81. Yes, you have to hand it to the man for producing a pathetic little box with a totally useless keyboard, memory capacity and black and white display. My first project works particularly well on this embarrassment for Sinclair (RIP)

Project 1 - The Terminator Have you heard of the box you put on the dash board of a car that makes noises to help lunatic drivers pretend they're blasting the crap out of the car in front in a traffic hold-up? Well here it is for the home micro, but this one not only helps you pretend that you're naffing up the computer it actually does it for you - enjoyment and stress relief!! All you need for this invention is some wire and a switch. Cut the wire into two and put a bit on either side of the switch. Simply connect one wire to the live terminal of a mains outlet and the other to any one pin on the CPU, and when you get really p*d off with a game, just press the switch. Smoke will emit from the user port, and in a few seconds the computer will explode, hurling little bits of black plastic all over the room.

Project 2 - The Cheat Machine This amazing idea will give you infinite anything you want in any game. All you need is a small hammer, preferably one with a six inch wooden shaft and a small screwdriver. While loading a game, use the screwdriver to remove the keyboard. When the game has loaded, repeatedly strike the internals of the computer until something dramatic starts to happen, hopefully infinite lives or time etc. I would like out that this project has not yet been perfected, and may not work first time, especially if you can't remove the keyboard, but if this problem occurs, simply hurl the computer at a wall, preferably a brick one, as this has the same effect as using a hammer.

Well, all I have left to say is that C+VG is a stonking good mag, and if anyone wants to donate a computer for research purposes I will be happy to accept.

Richard Head, Paisley, Renfrewshire.

YOB: Well, Dick Head. It certainly looks like you can give a computer a darn good POKEing, but research must be very machine-expensive. Have any of you other readers got useful hints and tips like these. If you have, please write in - there's a T-shirt and software on offer for the best tips printed!

games in it's 1K RAM.
Another point Mr Clock brings to light is the price of computer software. In our part of the county, people who cannot afford such necessities as computer software get something called a JOB, but this idea obviously hasn't caught on in South Yorkshire.
So, Mr Cack, stop whinging and filling this magazine with useless letters - that wasted paper would have no doubt come in handy in some Third World Country.
Moving on from Mr Carp's effort, we have just finished writing a wholly original game for the Aquarius called Space Invaders and would like to offer an exclusive tip to C+VG...
1: There IS cheat mode. You can advance a level simply by shooting all of the aliens (in any order!)
We are extremely worried about the SCA Virus. Can it spread to the Aquarius?
Yoda thinks he has caught it after sharing a keyboard with someone from San Francisco. Is Lemsip a possible cure? Please answer to these questions as it is extremely difficult to program with a condom stretched over your hands.
We think that the bug report idea is Tres Bien (as us German speakers would say) and have spotted a very serious programming fault in the Amiga version of Barbarian - by Palace. We found out that in the event of a power failure you lose all your lives and the game must be reloaded. I wonder how many of your other readers have spotted this bug?
Thank you for reading this important document.
Darth Vader and Yoda of TAC - The Aquarius Club, Witham, Essex.
YOB: Letter of the month and no mistake. Just like my belly button, I'm at a loss for words. Seven tons of Aquarius software and two stonklingly fab C+VG T-shirts are on their way. Please write again soon... and may the farce be with you.

SUPERNATURAL?

Dear YOB, How come when I buy a game and then I get C+VG it either reviews it or its in the charts? Do we have some psychic link from my Amstrad to your stonking great mag?
Dave, Boston, Lincolnshire.
YOB: Yes, it's one of those completely and utterly perplexing phenomena that will never, ever be explained.

AN OAP 'OPES

Dear YOB, I hope you don't mind if I call you "Master YOB", dearie, but YOB or YOBBO makes you sound like one of the nasty skinheads you see at a London tube station.
Anyway, I've got one of them console thingies, a SEGA whatsit, to play when I'm not in me orchard growing apples. Well I was wondering, you being an expert and all that, if you could give me some advice. I suppose you think I'm a mad old woman, and the only advice I need is psychiatric, but please tell what you think are the best five games to buy for me console?
By the way I think the way to treat young Garry Williams is unfair. You've even got me grandson Albert teasing him. The other day he said to me "Granny, if Garry Williams from C+VG gets any fatter, the police could use him as a road block."
Now if kind old Albert can tease our Garry anyone can, so this must stop! I place a shilling bet that next month some cruel person will make a joke about his plumpness.
Lots of love,
Granny Smith (who prefers to play her SEGA, than grow green apples).
YOB: Well, Gran, I think California Games, R-Type, Galaxy Force II, Shinobi are all great - although I'm sure that others would disagree. And the Sega certainly does beat Apples!

FRUITY INTERFACE

Dear YOB, You'll be pleased to know that I'm not going to start off by begging you for a C+VG T. Shirt... a Thunderblade arcade machine will do!
Now, seriously, I would like you to answer a fairly technical question - if I connected a Spectrum up with a pumpkin would it be compatible with SEGA games, or is there something else needed?
Oh, and does the pumpkin have to be ripe?
Jason Wheelhouse, Sheffield.
YOB: What you need is a large damson plugged between the pumpkin and the Spectrum, and it'll be completely Sega compatible. To make it Megadrive compatible, you have to plug a ripe aubergine into the top, and POKE the Spectrum's BUS IRQ RAMTOP locations 65535 and 65578. It's very easy.

GET LOST...

Dear YOB, I'm a rock hard punk so send me a C+VG T. Shirt or else. George Heenan, Holystone, Tyne and Wear. YOB: Rock hard punk? Shove off you girlie nancy, before I flatten your hair with a Doc Marten.

SUPER NO-NO

Dear YOB, Could you please tell me if Super Mario Brothers has been released for the Commodore 64? If not, could you tell me if it will be released in the near future? I will be very grateful for you help.
Robert Hannah, Anfield, Liverpool.
YOB: No and no.

EMPTY VESSELS

Dear Yob,
Ok, we've had enough of Jaz Rignall bragging about his knowledge of consoles and coin-ops, so let's suss him out. In the August issue of C+VG in the review of Twin Heli, Julian Rignall says that it's a conversion of Taito's Twin Heli, when it's actually Twin Cobra. Ha! Ha! Now someone can hopelessly try to suss me out on my brilliant knowledge of coin-ops.
Robert O'Keefe, Worcs.

YOB: Jaz informs me that Twin Cobra was originally called Twin Heli, and is exactly the same game - you can find some versions of the game with the original Japanese Twin Heli name, but they are rare. Feeling stupid now?

THE HOLO PREVIEWS

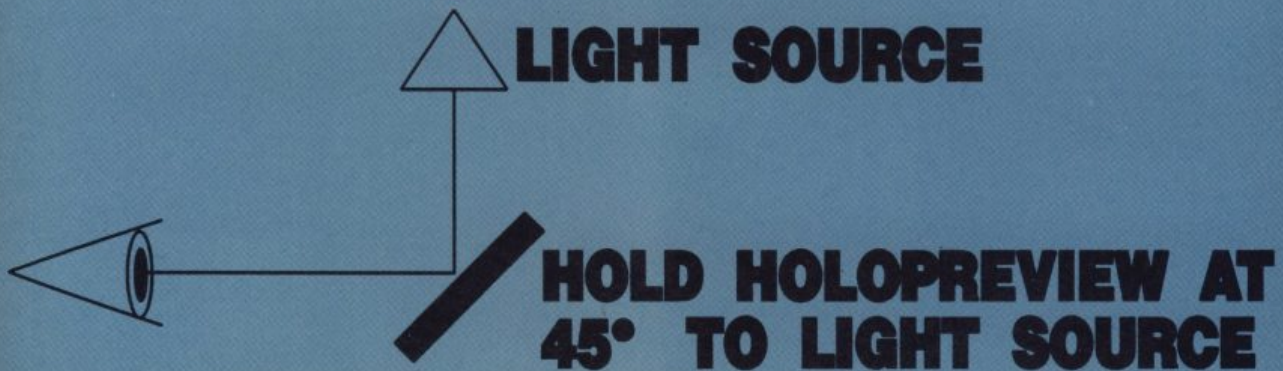
Which hologram did you get? Was it Xenon II. Or was it Interphase? Or are you an ultra-cool holo-collector who's got both of them?

Well, whichever ones you've got, here's the best way to display them. First of all, stick them in the Holobook - this way you won't get any light creeping in behind the image and the 3D effect won't be impaired.

Now find a direct light source - sunlight is pretty good, as are bright light bulbs (but not the frosted white ones). Forget neon lights, or areas where there's no direct light - your Holopreview won't be shown to its best effect.

Hold the holo at a 45 degree angle to the light, and move it left and right, and you get the full 3D animated effect - the following diagram shows how.

C+VG IS ON SALE ON THE 16TH OF EACH MONTH - DON'T MISS 'EM.



WHAT'S TO COME

There'll be a Holopreview FREE on the cover of the next three copies of C+VG, and like this month there'll be two to collect.

- In November we're proud to present the Power Drift Holopreviews. One will feature action from the actual game, while the second will feature Jason, the character which actually drives the Power Drift car. They're looking great!
- December sees the amazing Ghostbusters II Holopreviews. See the film, then catch a glimpse of what Activision's game-of-the-movie will look like. They're going to be big - so make sure you either reserve a copy of the mag, or get down to the shop quick before they sell out!
- And finally in the January edition of C+VG there'll be Holopreviews of two of the biggest Christmas arcade conversions, Operation Thunderbolt and Chase HQ. These, we're promised, will be spectacular!

NIGHT HUNTER

Okay all you creatures of the night. If Van Helsing and his 'orrible mob of do-gooders are causing you lots of hassle, read the following advice from Nino Amoroso...

- Only keys open doors, not scrolls.
- Try and pick up a scroll last unless you want Van Helsing chasing you for a long distance.
- To kill Van Helsing stay at the edge of the screen and keep pressing fire. He eventually dies and you get lots of points.
- Remember, an extra life is awarded every 50,000 points.
- Always stay behind Van Helsing - he only throws a stake when facing you.
- Try and avoid witches over water as they can turn you back from a bat to Dracula and kill you.
- Make sure you have enough energy before flying over big areas of water.
- The best way to amount points and energy is to stay at the edge of the screen and press fire.
- The crypts can only be entered in the morning. Listen out for the bird song which tells you its alright to enter.
- Avoid archers, especially if Van Helsing is around - you can crouch and they won't harm you. It's best to fly over them.
- Don't use the Werewolf mode. If you're hit, you change back to Dracula.
- Avoid eagles by crouching or turning into a bat. If picked up you can sometimes escape by wiggling the joystick.
- Avoid greycoats with brollies - one hit from them and you're dead! Fly over them or go to edge of screen and await them!
- Nurses with crosses are best dealt with by going to next screen and awaiting on the edge of screen (crosses sap energy).
- Keep your eyes peeled! Red keys can sometimes be hard to see on red backgrounds.
- Keys and scrolls can be left anywhere!
- Try and walk over bridges to collect keys, as a bat cannot land to collect!

AMIGA

FORGOTTEN WORLDS

Here's a quick 'n' easy tip for this brilliant Amiga blaster. On title screen, type ARC then hit HELP. Now press S for next shop and N for next level.

THUNDER-BLADE

If you need a bit of extra help on this Sega conversion, try out this easy-to-operate tip. On the high score table type CRASH and you can skip levels by pressing HELP. Couldn't be simpler, eh?

FALCON

Pilots should find this cheat very useful indeed when they're in the midst of battle. Just press X, SHIFT and CONTROL for increased afterburner, eight sidewinders and a full magazine. I don't know whether this cheat works on the Mission Disks, but I suppose there's no harm trying.

AFTERBURNER

Fly to the top left of the screen to avoid incoming missiles. Slow down on Levels 8 and 17 to avoid rocks, and go full speed to dodge infra-red missiles.

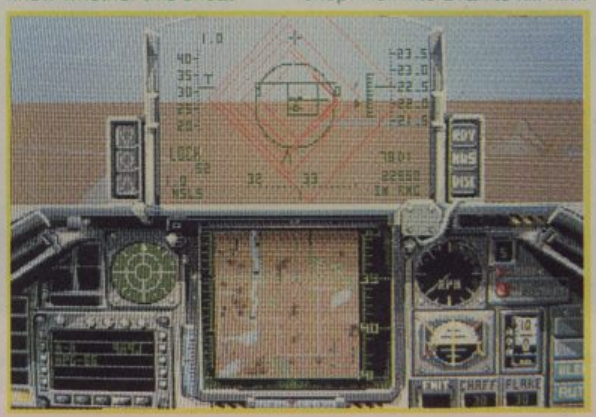
ARKANOID II

When all your lives are lost and the title screen comes on, hit CAPS LOCK and type MAGENTA. Press S while playing to open the gates to finish the level. Another cheat can be activated by pressing CAPS LOCK and typing DALEY when the title screen appears.

AMSTRAD

BARBARIAN

The best way to kill some of the later warriors is by doing a combination of neck chops and the web of death. Only try to chop their heads off on the first two levels. One level seven use the overhead chop. Roll into Drax to kill him.



WINNING RUN

One of the hottest arcade racing games of the moment is Namco's Winning Run. It use filled-3D graphics in spectacular fashion to make it one of the most thrilling race experiences outside of Brands hatch. Julian Rignall has the low-down on how best to race.

THE CARS

At the start of the game you get the choice of two vehicles, the three-speed car, and the five-speed technical machine.

THREE SPEED

This is recommended to newcomers. It's less powerful than the five-speed but is far easier to drive. It's virtually impossible to spin it (unless you're a really bad driver), and you can take virtually all the corners at top speed.

FIVE SPEED

This is actually a simulation of a real racing car, so as you can imagine, it's very tricky to drive. The extra power means that unless you're a proficient driver, you'll find yourself spinning off on every corner. In the race itself, there are sixteen other cars to drive against, and they're all pretty hot stuff!

DRIVING

Listen to the engine and keep an eye on the rev counter. This might sound basic stuff, but it's important to keep the car highly revved - it accelerates very slowly if revs are low and other cars will whizz past you. Changing gears correctly can shave seconds off your time!

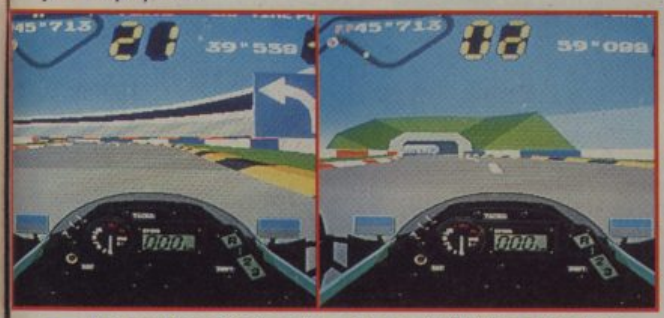
DRIVING

1 Listen to the engine and keep an eye on the rev counter. This might sound basic stuff, but it's important to keep the car highly revved - it accelerates very slowly if revs are low and other cars will whizz past you. Changing gears correctly can shave seconds off your time!

3 Race through the tunnel at top speed and keep the steering wheel straight - it's easy to bash the walls and slow the car down.

2 The first corner. With three-speed take this in third at full lock, slide around the corner and straighten as soon as you're out of the bend. With technical, change down to third, up to fourth through the bend and to fifth as soon as you're straight. If you feel the car sliding, countersteer.

4 Here, aim to clip the right hand kerb, and use the whole width of the course to take the bend. Three-speed, take at full whack; five-speed, change to third, fourth through the corner, and fifth as you exit the bend, and belt up the hill under the Namco tyre at top speed.



5 The next bend is deceptively sharp. With three-speed use full lock early to whizz round the bend at top speed without changing down - make sure you just clip the left hand kerb and you'll exit the corner on the right hand side of the track at top speed. With five-speed, change to third, then use full lock and slide through the bend, countersteering if you feel the back wheels going. Change to fourth just as you get straight, and to fifth when revs are high.

7 Race under the tunnel and head for the last bend. With three-speed corner so you just miss the wall on the left and you'll be catapulted through the bend onto the final straight without losing speed. On five-speed, change to fourth and slide through the bend using countersteering to keep the car straight. Change up to fifth when revs are high enough.

6 On both cars, race for the sharp bend at top speed. This is the most difficult corner on the track, and you should change down to second at the last moment and use full lock. You'll hit the wall on the left, but will have enough speed to be able to accelerate away at speed. Change up the gears as quickly as possible. If you muck up and hit the wall twice, change quickly to first, then up as soon as revs are high enough - you've got to move fast or seconds will be lost.

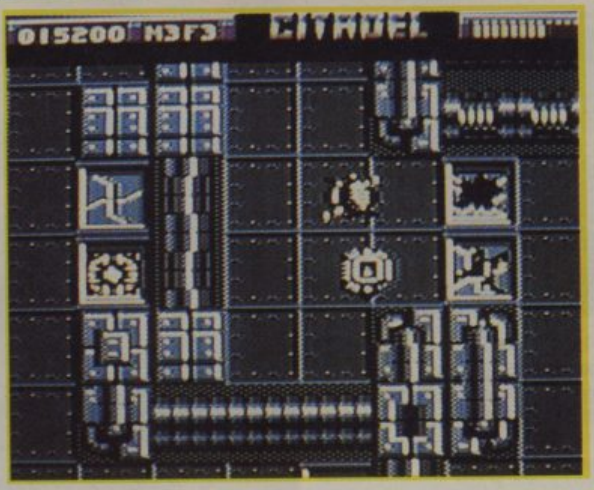
8 On the final straight keep your foot to the floor and pass as many cars as possible. If traffic is heavy, or you just want to pose you can drift right and race down the pit lane at top speed. If you do, make sure you keep the steering wheel straight or you'll hit the sides of this narrow road and all your speed will be lost.

GAME TIPS

C64

CITADEL

Kenneth Henry of Enfield in Middlesex has some really neat tips for players of this brilliant C64 blaster. Read 'em and conquer all eight levels...



GENERAL TIPS

Know your enemy! Keep a list of the enemies written down, or make sure you have memorised the characteristics of your adversaries by skipping through them on the attract mode. Learning how to trick and kill certain types of enemy will save time and lives, eg approaching a horizontally-firing object diagonally and vice-versa. This won't work with 8-directional objects as they tend to shoot whenever the Monitor moves, so attack from a distance - bullets cover a three-square distance so use the space to your advantage. Practice the art of getting within two squares of a hostile and then gliding away, firing back at the target.

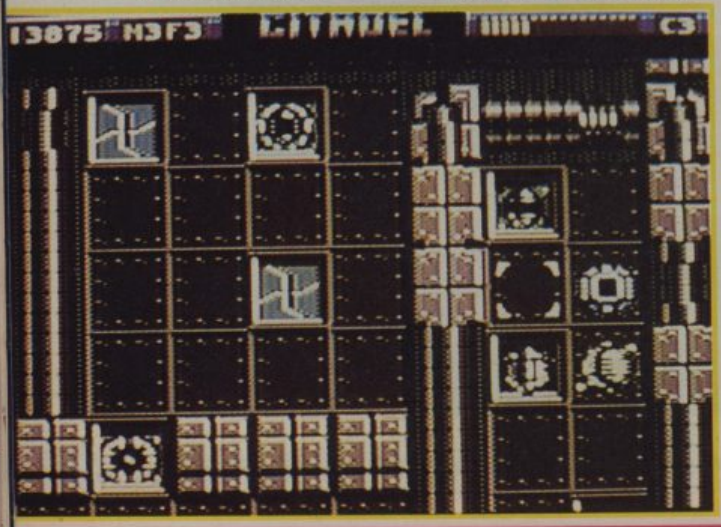
Try not to leave yourself in a diagonal trap by either static guns or Destroyers. Mobiles have to be killed quickly and efficiently, and that means a stealthy approach to fighting. Don't hang around an area after clearing a screen of mobiles.

WEAPONRY

In my opinion, the best weapons system is burst fire, even though it costs the most energy (four units). That is compensated for by an adjacent energy pod on earlier levels, but on cities like Hazard, equipment pods are not grouped together as often, so you need to map out their position mentally, so that even if you don't pick them up upon discovery, they can be captured later. Burst fire also runs out faster than other weapons, so once it is acquired, only fire single select shots to make the weapon last.

KILL OR CAPTURE?

Well, that depends on your energy level, the type of mobile, its speed (ie whether there is time to aim the capture probe), and finally how much energy the mobile takes to capture and how many shields the mobile itself will have upon capture. A mobile in control helps when Monitor is boxed in as it moves freely around you and rams the nearest enemies. When you intend to use a captured mobile as a shield, ram your (slower) enemies first, as shooting them causes the dying mobile/emplacement to fire a last shot which causes an extra hit on your shield (or you). Captured mobiles are quite helpful (but not essential) for killing Dropper mobiles and Destroyers, and for knocking out Stepper and turret guns.



WHICH IS BEST?

As for which mobiles to capture, Watchers are a pointless choice while Destroyers are a waste of energy. I normally capture the slower mobiles like Stunners, Diaganois and Blockers. Only capture mobiles like Droppers and Aggressors in tight situations with a high energy level. Only capture Assassins (if at all) from a distance, and have the capture probe ready. Only capture static guns when they are either paired up or on single-space corridors and the static gun blocks the way though. If you do that, remember the same gun will be there on your return. Static emplacement capture costs one to four energy units

SAVE ENERGY

One ingenious way to save energy is when a high-level weapon and an energy pod are next to each other. Grab the pod (if low on energy) and then the weapon in turn. The energy gauge will drop but then continues to recharge. The same thing happens when Monitor is hit by bullets or is rammed while recharging.

SHIELD

Once you've used a captured mobile as a shield, lock it in position so it will keep up and not go off screen where it will be lost and your energy wasted. Try not to lock it in a diagonal position relative to Monitor as you'll find it hard to go through the gap after switching off a beam. The other reason for locking is for safe transport (if a roving shield-mobile is more than one square away from a lift shaft, it will also be lost, and your energy wasted).

VOID CITY

On the Void City, kill anything within range when you've emerged from a lift shaft. The parting shot from a Stunner or Stepper gun can kill if you're low on energy and trying to escape. So don't run so readily - shoot first.

In the chambers, I recommend locking mobiles as soon as they are captured, as they can easily lag behind you and get zapped by the "random" beams. Turn up the volume of the TV to listen for the city's "heartbeat" which emanates for about three seconds as the beams flash, and then an approximate two second break allowing safe passage through for Monitor and its locked mobile. Make the city work for you in this level and guide chasing aliens into the beams.

Don't hang around traps letting whole squads of mobiles emerge - it's better to just pause the game to prevent a Destroyer appearing. If a whole crowd of Watchers appear it's irritating and anything else is dangerous. Even if you don't fire, once Monitor moves, the mobile group will have the firepower to pound you with one collective shot.

LORDS OF THE RISING SUN

If you're a new player of this fine Cinemaware strategy game, you should find the following tips from Andrew McGarrigle of Mexborough, S Yorks very useful in your attempt to establish a dynasty.

CHOOSE YOUR CHARACTER

Sunshitsune gets you used to the strategy of the game, so it's best to play him first. Yoritomo has better arcade skills - but unless you're a strategy buff who's rubbish at arcade games you don't really need to choose him.

STARTING OFF

Under no circumstances should you try and take the centre, west or the two islands off Japan or it will be very difficult to get anywhere in the game. You should instead concentrate on the eastern castles first. You shouldn't have too much difficulty, as these castles fall very easily at the beginning of the game.

RECRUITING

The next thing to do is try and recruit more men, especially from the White Ronin. Just try and make sure your army is virtually at full strength. If you're lucky he may think your army is too strong for him and he may join you. If the White Ronin wishes to pass unhindered let him, because he's no real threat to your armies and lands (just yet!).

WHAT NEXT?

As you have been taking the eastern half of Japan your brother, Yoritomo will have been causing havoc in and around Central Japan, so rest at one of your castles and resupply with men and health. Then go to your brother, Yoritomo and have a battle. With a little luck Yoritomo will be killed. At this point you inherit your dead brother's lands and generals. If you don't succeed, keep trying. Now you can start to take the rest of Japan.

BATTLE TACTICS

Remember to always check your siege skills before taking any castles and if you can, transfer skills with another one of your generals. Do the same for sword skills (for encounters on land) and bow skills (for defending your castles). Always remember, there's safety in numbers, so if you manage to get five or six generals in your army it can be a big advantage to pair them off. When you have managed to take the mainland, make a couple of visits to the Emperor at Koyoto where he will first give you the sacred scroll, and then the sacred sword.

ENCOUNTERS

Around this time it is important to keep an eye on the encounter screen. Because your enemies know that they're under threat from you and your armies, so they will send Ninjas to try and kill you. When you see this message press the left mouse button as quickly as possible and with a bit of luck, the offending general will commit seppuku. The next thing to do is take the remaining two islands and the last four castles. First send one of your generals to Nagoya, one to Aikawa and one to Matsue. This will stop your enemies from resupplying when they retreat. When you finally take the last castle, the Minamoto Victory Banner will be raised and you will become Shogun.

GAME TIPS

WHAT TO DO

First you should go to Buckland where you meet Merry. Join Merry to the fellowship for more protection for Frodo. From Buckland you should now pick up a few objects, as most of them are quite close to each other. It's wise to spread out the black flasks and healing potions.

Now go to Rivendell to see Gandalf. When you get there, Gandalf and some other men, dwarves and elves should have joined you to aid Frodo in his quest. Here, pick up the Mithril Mail and give Gandalf the Gnarled Staff, because with this he is more powerful.

IMPORTANT OBJECTS

The Golden Sceptre
The Red Arrow
The Silver Orb

If you present The Red Arrow to King Theoden Rohan at his palace, Edoras will mobilise the Ridden of the Mark. If you present the Silver Orb to Thrandril at his palace, the elves will mobilize. If you present the Golden Sceptre to Denethor, Minas Tirth will also mobilise.

To present them with these objects, you have to be on the animated level. Click on the person who has the object and click on the provisions icon. Choose an object, then choose the correct object that you are going to present them with. They will say something and then mobilise.

DEFENDING TIPS

If Sauron's forces take over three of the good major strongholds, you lose. The five strongholds are...

MAP CO-ORDINATES
Edoras E5
Hornburg E5
Thranduil Palace B7
Lorien C5
Minas Tirith E6

If you fight from a stronghold your troops will kill more attackers. Minas Tirith is the major stronghold and the enemy just keep on pouring in, so it's good to have a lot of troops there. There are also a lot of forces scattered around, so send these forces to help out at other strongholds before the Dark Lord's armies take them. While the troops are defending, the fellowship should be near Mount Doom and can slip past into Mount Doom. It may be necessary to join forces with some troops, in case you have to fight before you get to Mount Doom.

IT BRINGS OUT THE BEAST IN YOU!

THUNDER-BIRDS

FIVE! FOUR! THREE! TWO! ONE! Thunderbirds are go... Well, they are when you use the following hints from Simon and Ben Uttley from Harrow in Middlesex. These tips are for the Amstrad version, but since the game is the same on all formats, you should be able to use them no matter which machine you own.

EQUIPMENT

MISSION 1
ALAN - lamp and oil can
BRAINS - torch and anything else

MISSION 2
GORDON - aqualung and American Express
ALAN - aqualung and radiation pills

MISSION 3
LADY PENELOPE - sleep spray and anything
PARKER - mouse and stethoscope

MISSION 4
VIRGIL - shades and gun
SCOTT - shades and superglue

MISSION 1
Get Brains to go up in the lift. Turn off the pump with the spanner and then get the dynamite. (The lift goes up and down). Carry on until you find an unpassable rock with explosives in it. Drop the plunger and get the fuse. Go back to the rock and hold the fuse and plunger at the same time and press fire. Run past the rock and carry on until you reach the miner. Make Alan pick up the ladder and place it across the gap where it says warning. Pick up the other object (the light or the oil) carry on until you find an old cart and oil the wheels. Push it across the gap on the next screen and walk over. When you've done that find the drill and the compressed air and hold them at the same time. When you walk past a computer you switch on the drill and drill through the barrier to find Brains and the miner. Now get Brains back to the Mole.

MISSION 2
Take Alan left and up from Thunderbird 4 and use the pills when you see the Captain, who will give you a blue card. Get Gordon to find the pills which are found by going left, down and right. Use the pills. Carry on right until you can go down. Go down and carry on right until you find two computers with B and V on them. Guide Alan there and put both characters in front of the B computer. Use the American Express card to shut off the reactor and resurface the sub by using Alan and Gordon to bail all the water out.

MISSION 3
You have to find four keys to open the vault. The first one is in the room with all the filing cabinets. Get Lady Penelope and Parker there and move Parker about so that the cabinets open. Move Lady P in front of them and press fire. Do this until you find a key. Get Lady P in front of the second lift and go down with Parker who has to move a trolley into the lift. The second key is on the fourth floor under the desk. Go up to floor six and use the mouse to hit the control panel and turn off the gun. Go down, down, stay on the ladder until the guard goes past and go left three times and up twice. Use the stethoscope on the safe and pick up the key. Drop the mouse and go down until you arrive at the basement. Go left and pick up the other key. Go up until you find six rings. You must change the order so that they are like this from left to right:

NUUUNN

Switch to Lady P and go right when the guard has gone past. Go down until you find another six rings. Change them so they look like this:

NUNNUU

Go left and when you reach the safe and the cabinets, put two keys in one of the cabinets (it doesn't matter which but make sure it's the same one) and pick up the documents to finish the mission.

MISSION 4
I won't give too much away, but don't kill the guard - use the glue. Use the gun three times in the force field room. You have to go down in the piano by using a key and some music. Check out the bedside drawers.

BY INFOGRAMES/ MAXIS

▲ Godzilla meets Happy Valley!

▲ It's a busy day in downtown Happy Valley...

▲ Mayor Cook cleans up the city.

▲ The monster's heading for the bridge!!

If you've ever wanted a very good reason to go out and buy a half megabyte upgrade for your Amiga, here it is - Sim City.

What is this memory-eating miracle of modern technology? Well it's the first ever city simulation. And if you think it sounds about as interesting as attending the planning sub-committee of the local council, you'd be wrong. Sim City is utterly fab.

OK then, what happens? Well, in the basic game you start off with a sparsely-wooded wilderness with a river running through it, and a pile of money. It's time to start building.

What do you need to start a city? Well, houses would help - so bulldoze down a few trees and drop in a residential zone. Jobs for the people who are going to live there... that'll be an Industrial Zone (and people don't want to live next door to a chemical works, so put it a bit out of the way). And how about some shops and stuff so everyone can buy their copies of C&VG - those are Commercial Zones.

Nothing happens. How about building a power station and connecting all the zones to it, so the lights come on? Obvious. Now something magical happens - before your eyes the city starts to grow... within the limits of the zones you have set down.

▲ Under construction: commercial districts for Dullsville.

Little houses spring up in the Residential Zones, Factories grow in the Industrial Zones, Shops sprout up in the Commercial Zones - you can see the dynamics of this by glancing at the thin graph on the far left of the screen, which has yellow, green and blue lines. If they point up everything is positive and alright -

iTY

▲ Building dez rezzes in prime positions.

if they point down, something is going wrong.

Like now for instance. The first year has whizzed by and you go to set your budget and find you are very unpopular and there is very little growth. Ah! No transport. You have to connect the zones together by building roads or railways. No problem. Do this and the traffic starts to flow before your very eyes as the Sims go from home to work and back again.

Call up the comprehensive set of graphs and zone maps. Crime is up! Build a Police Station and see it go down under the influence of law and order. And how about a Fire Station while you are at it, just in case there's an outbreak of playing with matches? Bloomin' heck - it's the end of the year again. Look at all that money you've spent! And how little is coming in. Raise taxes! But watch out because your people might get fed up with high taxes and move out of the city! Lower taxes! Expand the city! Spend, spend, spend!

C+VG HIT!

See the traffic problems build up. See pollution get higher. See everyone complain! Worry about why industry is moving out and unemployment is rising! As your city grows more, fret about how you are going to afford to buy your Sims a Stadium! And keep industry happy with a Port. And commerce happy with an Airport.

Then just when you think you've got everything under control, a big green monster comes along and starts flattening the lot... or maybe an earthquake happens. Actually, these disasters are optional - if you'd rather have a quiet life.

What did you think of the feeling of power that Populous gave you? Sim City delivers that and more - as a true reality is created which lives, breathes and complains!

You can experiment and build different types of city - or load existing scenarios which pit your skills again famous disasters, like the San Francisco Earthquake!

Chances are you will find that Sim City exercises a strange fascination as you carefully tend and build your creation (mine's called Happy Valley!) and try to keep the residents happy and the budget balanced.

Sim City is a classic - a work of true genius - and is a program that no Amiga owner should be without.

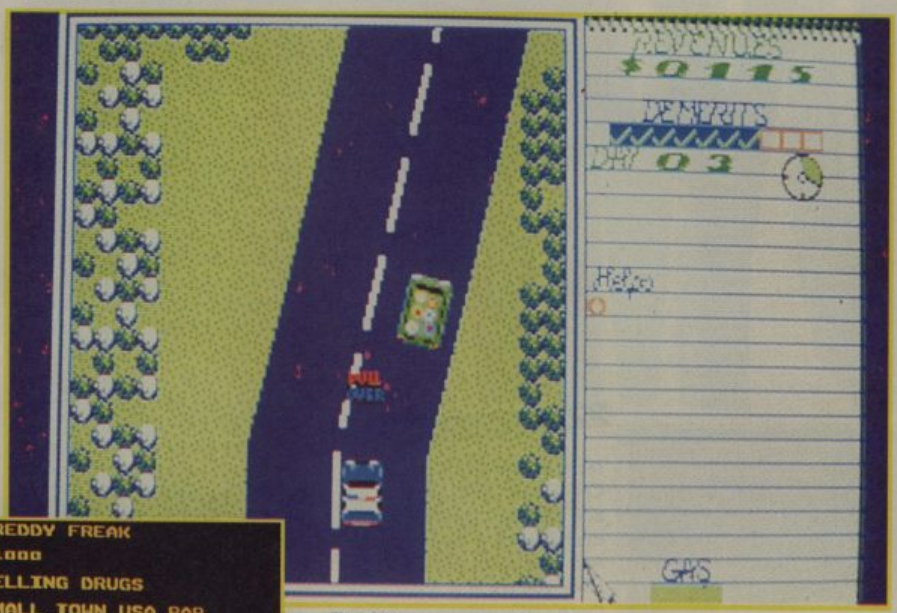
APB

BY DOMARK

If you've ever wanted to become a Policeman, here's your chance in this not-too-serious arcade conversion from Domark. Officer Bob is your name, and apprehending 'orrible villains is your game. But they're not your common or garden villains. There's none of this "'ello, 'ello, 'ello what's going on 'ere then - you're nicked sonny" stuff here. No siree, Bob. Do that and you're likely to get a stick of dynamite stuffed up your nose. The felons Bob encounters are all heavily armed and don't think twice about taking pot-shots at approaching coppers...

The game begins with a practice screen in which novice rozzers can warm up by driving around a test track in their cop car. After that the action begins proper with Bob going out on his first mission. The game uses an overhead viewpoint, and the road scrolls past as Bob races along in his car.

There are a lot of criminals on the road, the most common being litterbugs. They spread rubbish from their cars, but can be arrested and fined simply by guiding the arrest cursor that floats in front of Bob's car over them and pressing fire.



Every time Bob crashes he gains a demerit - too many of those results in Bob being chucked out of the force. The car also has a limited amount of fuel - running out also results in expulsion from the force.

Arrest your quota of law breakers and head back to the station to collect bonus points. On day two the first of the big baddies appear - in this case Freaky Freddy the drug dealer. He drives around in a flowery hippy van and can only be apprehended by bashing him off the road. Arrest him and take him back to the station and you get the chance to force him to confess.

This is a really neat screen in which the shadows of Bob and his suspect, being clutched by his collar, are seen through an office window. Wiggle the joystick as fast as possible to get your confession - but be quick because the captain's coming down the stairs and if he catches Bob, he won't get a hefty confession bonus!

The game continues along these lines, with villains becoming tougher and tougher to arrest, and even more criminals taking to the road. Officer Bob certainly has his work cut out attempting to keep law and order!

The ST conversion suffers from jerky scrolling and sprite movement and rather indistinct graphics, but the intermission screens are great, and the use of samples from the original machine result in an amusing game that fans of the coin-op will love.

The Spectrum version is disappointing, though. It's a fairly accurate copy of the coin-op, but unfortunately has an oversensitive control method which makes it very difficult and frustrating to play. One for ardent APB fans only.

DRAGON SPIRIT

BY DOMARK

▼ Fighting the flaming pheonix.

Domark's latest Tengen conversion offers a new twist on the vertically scrolling shoot 'em up theme. Instead of flying a space ship against the massed army of some exotic alien nation, you take control of a huge blue dragon on a mission to rescue a Princess who has been captured by a big, evil monster. This requires you to fly through eight levels of action and lay waste to anything that gets in your way.

The landscapes are varied, and range from volcanic ranges through snowscapes to deep valleys. Each one is packed with hordes of flying creatures and mutant foliage which spit fireballs at your dragon. The dragon can defend itself by gobbing fire bolts at anything in the air and blue firebombs earthwards to burn things on the ground. And there are plenty of targets to torch!

To help prolong your dragon life, there are also power-up icons to collect. These are released when an egg is firebombed, and the icon inside can give an extra head (up to three), shrink your dragon (makes you a lot harder to hit), give extra shot power, full flame or homing missiles, a temporary shield, earthquake power (destroys all ground objects), extra points or extra lives. A neat collection, really.

At the end of each level is (surprise, surprise) a giant guardian who must be destroyed. These range from dinosaurs to maniacal flowers, and put up a tough fight, with missiles flying from all angles! If you destroy the baddie at the end of the eighth level, the Princess is rescued and you can get your just rewards...

▼ Dodge the fiery balls.

▲ Plug the pulsating poppy pods.

The Spectrum conversion contains all the elements of the original coin-op, and there's plenty of action for blasting fans to get their teeth into.

The ST version boasts similar graphics and playability to the arcade original, and although the action is tough, it's highly addictive and is recommended to shoot 'em up fans.

JULIAN RIGNALL

UPDATE

Amiga, C64 and Amstrad versions will be available soon. The Amiga version should be similar to the ST, but with slightly better sound and graphics, while the other two will be more colourful and noisy than the Spectrum, but will play the same.

▲ Dodge the Chimera's fireballs!

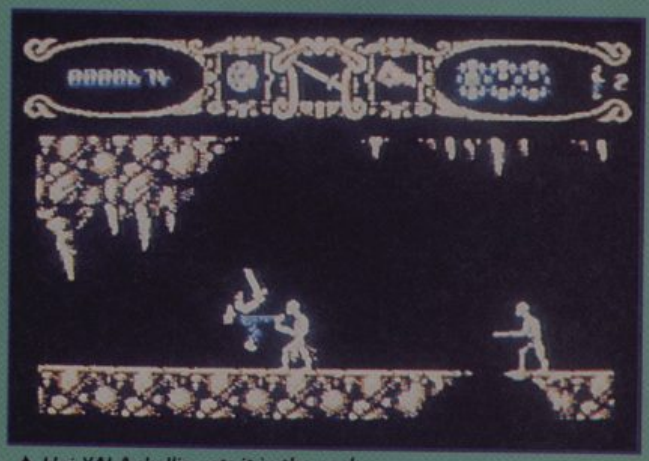
MYTH

BY SYSTEM 3

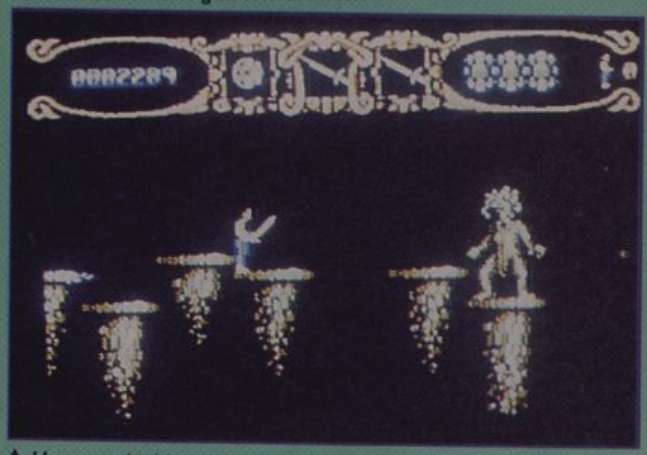
Picture the scene. There you are, coming out of Tesco's with your carrier bag full of mixed vegetables, when ZAMM! you're suddenly zooming through a tunnel of light, going baaaack through time.

"Panic not, humanling, for ye are the chosen one," croons an eerie god-like voice. "Only ye can defeat the evil deity, Dameron, who is making our lives a misery in ancient times. And if we, the benevolent gods, are not around to keep the human race going in the past, ye and thy race won't even exist in the future, let me tell ye."

▲ A squad of skeletons from the Spec[tr]um



▲ Hai-YA! A skellie gets it in the neck.



▲ Use your shield to deflect Medusa's gaze.

With a strange "woo-eeee-ooo" sound echoing in your ears, you appear in a scrolling cave of rocky platforms. A quick jog and jump is all it takes to find that this cave isn't just any old scrolling cave full of rocky platforms. Sword-wielding skeletons patrol the ledges, and from roosts in the roof, fiendish harpies swoop down, talons bared. Your only defence is your fists, your feet and your cat-like agility, but if you're lucky, thumped monsters leave handy weapons behind for you to collect.

Carrying a sword replaces your array of punches and kicks with leaping lunges and savage slashes. Other weapons such as tridents and magic fireballs can be thrown with devastating effects.

After dealing death to the Chimera guarding the cave exit, you run outside, straight into a crowd of angry Greeks bearing a striking resemblance to the cast of Jason and the Argonauts. Watch out for the Siren, who lures you towards her then turns into a whopper serpent and gobbles you up. One judicious jab and she disappears, leaving behind a useful amulet

At this point I should mention that Myth is nine parts platform beat 'em up, and one part adventure. The thinking comes in at least once each section, when you meet the megabeast which requires some special tactic to kill. Anyone familiar with ancient mythology or even Ray Harryhausen movies will know how to deal with them, but they usually require a certain object from earlier on in the game. For instance, killing the many-headed Hydra has to be done Perseus-style, by somehow hacking off the Gorgon's head and using it to turn the Hydra to stone.

▼ There's magic in the air!

Spectru version.

▲ Jason and Argonaut lookalikes in threatening mode.

C+VG HIT!

The game continues in this vein, taking you through confrontations with legendary monsters and gods from Greek, Roman, Egyptian and Norse mythologies, as well as a trip through Faery-type legend. This takes up four separate loads so there's a heck of a lot of playing to be done before you get to fight Dameron.

Inimitable pixel Picasso, Bob Stevenson, has designed the Commodore version's graphics which in spite of their small size are intricately detailed. The animation of the sprites, particularly the player's character, is very slick indeed, giving an almost Rotoscoped effect as he runs, leaps and kicks the heads of skellies.

Sound, too, is rather nice, running to some sampled speech and great clanking swords and thumping effects.

Myth's bias towards arcade action rather than adventuring makes it even more addictive than Tusker (reviewed last month). Your little time traveller is such a flexible fighter that the gameplay avoids getting into the rut of walk-along-and-slash, so it's guaranteed to keep you occupied for many hours after you've shelled out your tenner. There's no doubt about it - it's another winner for System 3.

PAUL GLANCEY

▼ Say hi to the Hydra.

UPDATE

Myth is soon to appear on Amstrad and Spectrum as well as ST and Amiga. The gameplay should be indistinguishable between the different formats, but System 3 promise that the graphics and sonics on the 16 bit versions will make full use of each machine's capabilities.

TAKING THE MYTH

System 3 are so chuffed with Myth, that they've decided to get together with us here at C+VG and offer a brilliant video cassette recorder as first prize in this Myth competition. And as an added bonus they're also giving away a copy of the Jason and the Argonauts video, so the winner can watch lots of jolly mythological japes.

So what have you got to do to stand a chance of winning this video machine? Well, since Myth is all about ancient legends and lore, we've decided to ask you five questions on the subject. They're nice and easy (they've got to be, Jaz made them up and he's rubbish at history) so you won't even have to get out those dusty old history books...

When you've got all five answers right, write them on the back of a postcard or sealed-down envelope and send them off to: I'M A MYTHOLOGICAL GENIUS SO THOSE QUESTIONS WERE A PIECE OF CAKE COMP, C+VG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON, EC1R 3AU. The closing date for the comp is October 16 - after that we'll be putting all the entries into a giant sack, and the first correct one pulled out will win its sender the video player and the tape.

Great eh?

2. Which mythological character has snakes for hair?

GEMINI WING

BY VIRGIN

Hot on the slimy trail left by Xenon II's tendrils and antennae comes Gemini Wing, the heroic tale of a lone fighter who simply loathes mutant bugs, bulbous alien growths and rogue fish. And who can blame him?

Not you, since you're in charge of his craft. This is a nifty little number that can carry extra weapons pods as a kind of tail - simply collect the orbs left behind by your enemies and they're welded to your rear. Some of these are very handy, including three-way missiles, speed-ups, rota-bombs, homing missiles and (this is tops) a weapon that wipes the screen with a solid line of death. Simply holding down the fire button activates the first icon in line.

Every level is packed with the kind of creepy crawlies you wouldn't want to find in your soup, and every one is rounded off with a smarter-than-average alien that takes lots of hits to wipe out. For example, at the end of the first level you're faced by a walrus-like fish thing which can only be described as a walrus-like fish thing. It spews out big lumps of caviar but nothing much else, and is a little too easy to get rid of.

If all this sounds familiar, it is. Tecmo's coin-op was neither original nor stunning, and these versions do nothing to enhance its reputation. Worse still, both games do little justice to the capabilities of their respective machines.

Even fans of the original coin-op might be disappointed by these conversions.

GORDON HOUGHTON

UPDATE

Gemini Wing is available on the Spectrum and Amstrad at a price of £9.99 cass, £14.99 disk; on the ST, it'll set you back £19.99. All versions should be available by the time you read this, and you can expect no major gameplay changes.

F-15 STRIKE EAGLE II

There are certainly a lot of great flight simulators around these days - and joining the already crowded airways is F15 Strike Eagle II, the sequel to the ageing Microprose flying game, F15 Strike Eagle.

It's basically a combat simulator, with the emphasis on destroying set targets and dogfighting, rather than having to worry about watching your flaps, rudders and elevation. Although flight simulator purists might scoff at this sort of thing, I personally feel that this type of control simplification makes for a far more thrilling and exciting simulation, leaving you free to fly and fight without fear of nosediving to earth every few seconds. If you really do want to attempt to fly the plane realistically, there are options to let you do so. But without practice you don't last long ..

At the start of the mission the player is presented with a highscore table which shows a list of pilots, and the scores and honours they've so far acquired (the table automatically saves your pilot's progress). When year. Once you've chosen the conflict area, you're given a mission, and once you're briefed it's off into the air.

The screen display accurately shows a F15 cockpit, with a colourful 3D view of the outside world. Pilots can also look left, right and out of the back of the cockpit, view the plane externally from all angles, and even select a missile's view (which is useless, but a great laugh when it's on its way to a target).

There's an autopilot (which lands for you, and even takes you to the next target), accelerated time and a training option, which helps novice pilots, or players who just want to treat the game as a combat arcade game and get highscores without having to worry about the complicated aspects of flying!

The fact that there's plenty to do makes F15 II one of the most exciting simulations around. There's squadrons of enemy aircraft to fight with, and a lot of ground installations to keep you on your toes - watch out for SAM missiles and keep your finger on the chaff button!

On-screen presentation is brilliant, with clear and easy to understand radar displays and warning systems, making the simulation a joy to fly. The graphics are also utterly superb, with the sky and ground shaded beautifully to give an incredible feeling of depth. The ground even fades out the higher you get! It's certainly the most realistic 3D effect yet seen on a flight simulation.

The only disadvantage of F15 II is that to really appreciate it you've got to have a fast VGA PC to play it on - but if you've got access to such a machine, this is THE program to buy for it.

SHUFFLEPUCK CAFE

▲ Cafe society. What a bunch.

BY DOMARK/ BRODERBUND

Typical. Just when you're at the end of your last Krypton 3 sales run, the blimmin' astro-car breaks down and you have to call the repairman from the seediest Space Rangers' bar this side of the Dog And Algolian Duck. Between you and the phone, there's an ugly crowd of characters clustered around a Shufflepuck table and they want a game...

Pick your opponent and take a seat. Each contestant varies in their Shufflepuck prowess, from complete klutz to Mr Turbo-Reactions, so it's a good idea to start with someone like the programmable training robot or Skip Feeney (a prize zeeb).

You're bound to be instantly familiar with Shufflepuck, it being a futuristic version of ye olde arcade table game, Air Hockey. As you face your opponent across the table, grasp your mouse and take control of a paddle. Using his paddle, each player has to score points by hitting a puck over his opponent's end of the table, while defending his own end. The first player to fifteen points is declared the winner, and if that happens to be you, you get to take on the next most advanced contestant.

To spice the game up a bit, you can change the size of your paddle from weeny to table-width. But remember, the bigger your paddle, the less spin you can put on the puck, making it more difficult to spang off a real trouser-scorching shot.

As well as being able to alter paddle size, you can also put a blocker on the table. As its name suggests, this is just a block which sits on the table until the puck hits it. Then it starts to drift back and forth across the middle of the table, deflecting the puck right back at whoever hits it, resulting in some embarrassing own-goals.

Now you may think (as I did) that such enhancements are comparatively insignificant, when, surely, all the gameplay boils down to is a kind of 3D Pong. Well, this is true to a certain extent, but remember - this Broderbund game.

Beating the first three opponents is a piece of cake, but after that the computer players' reaction speed goes through the roof. It's a real challenge just keeping up with the puck, never mind trying to spin it or catch your opponent out of position. As well as having different playing styles, each contestant keeps you amused with his characteristic gestures and sound effects which also help keep boredom at bay. I particularly liked Vinnie the Dweeb's victory chant of "Nyah Nyah Na Nyah Na!".

▲ Mean General Eneg scores.

Shufflepuck's other really smart feature is it's mouse control method, which simulates (about as accurately as an Amiga mouse is able) the action of a real Air Hockey paddle - the fas-

AAARGH

BY MELBOURNE HOUSE

In Melbourne House's conversion of the Arcadia coin-op, your goal - as an 18-foot scaly green lizard or a one-horned ogre with bad breath - is to capture the mythical Roc's golden egg.

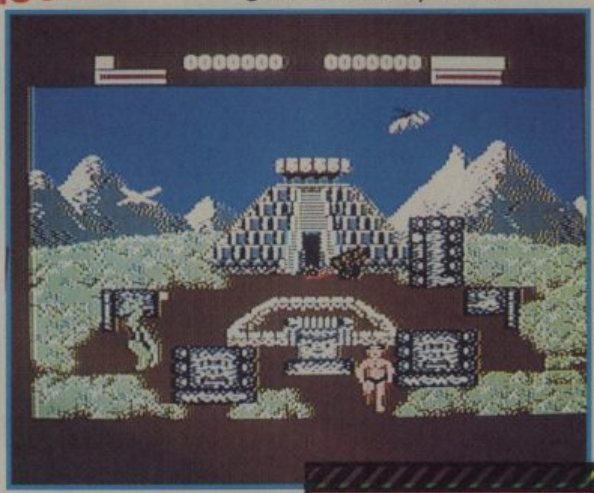
This isn't as easy as it sounds. You're on an island with ten different cities (the packaging says twelve), populated by humans who'll do anything to sap your energy. There's also the local insect population, who like to feed on monster energy. Against this background of opposition, you've got to knock down buildings until the whole community is devastated and you find a white egg. Once this is gained, you fight your opposite number for the right to keep it.

All of the latest versions of Aaargh!, unlike the Amiga game now over a year old, have a two-player option. This means that pillaging whole communities, plundering their food and eating their menfolk a lot more fun, and fighting each other after each round is more competitive and enjoyable.

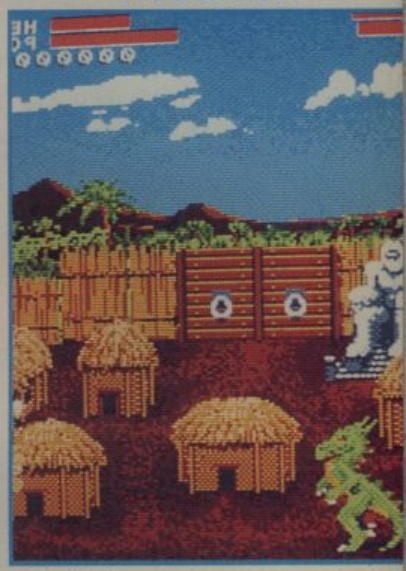
But the big problem with the game is that it's incredibly easy. You can go through the whole game with little practice, and consequently the game rapidly becomes repetitive.

With two-players the game isn't so bad, because you've got each other to bash up, but solo players might find themselves getting bored after a while, especially as the computer opponent can easily be beaten with the same move.

GORDON HOUGHTON



●C64 version is fairly horrific.



●The lizard cogitates.

UPDATE

Amiga Aaargh has been available for over a year, and it's very similar to the ST, but has better sound. An Amstrad version is also available, and is very similar to the C64 version.

SPECTRUM £9.99

Much the same as the 64 version: what the monsters make up for in detail, the backgrounds lose in variety. Eating people and destroying their homes should be a lot more fun than this.

OVERALL 42%

C64 £9.99

Bland graphics and poor animation coupled with some miserable sound effects means that C64 Aaargh! is unattractive to start with. Fewer available moves than the ST, a poor control method and no map just make things worse.

GRAPHICS	81%

ST Aaargh! is easily the most enjoyable of all the versions currently available, but it's far too easy to complete on your own. An in-game tune wouldn't have gone amiss, but otherwise the sound effects and graphics are nice.

The top spots haven't changed at all, but some hot new titles make their presence felt throughout the rest of the chart. Lombard RAC Rally shows unexpected staying power - it was released before last Christmas and is still haunting the nether regions of the chart!

JULIAN'S TIPS

XENON II: Hottest ST blast yet, guaranteed to hyperspace to the top of November's chart.
RAINBOW ISLANDS: Stunning coin-op conversion should be leaping straight into a lofty spot before you can say "Jim Robinson"
ROCKET RANGER: Just released on the ST, this is the best Cinemaware adventure yet and deserves to do well.

OUTSIDE BET

QUARTZ: Stylish blast from Firebird with enough addiction power to get it into the top twenty, fer sure.

FIENDISH FREDDY'S BIG TOP O' FUN: Pricey, but Freddy's madcap circus exploits are well worth a place high in the chart.
XENON II: Superb shoot 'em up with a sizeable amount pre-release hype to help it push in at a top spot.
RAINBOW ISLANDS: Wonderful arcade conversion from Firebird has got to be big.

INDIANA JONES AND THE LAST CRUSADE: Didn't quite make it this month, but it has the massive success of the movie behind it now.

HOW THE CHARTS ARE CREATED

Every month Gallup contacts, on behalf of C+VG, retailers up and down the country to find out what you've been buying. The chart uses information from retailers of every size, from small local stores to big high street chain stores. We think it's a fairer representation of the true state of sales than any other chart. We Hope you agree.

Green Beret has streaked from nowhere to the number two position. Bard's Tale, with it's new-found budget price tag has made quite an impact on all the individual machine charts, and has consequently settled into eleventh place in the overall ranking.

Don't push him - Rambo lopes stealthily into sixteenth position.

Army Moves moves to number 18.

Crazy Cars II goes completely loopy and hits the number 19 spot.

Number 20 this month - Gauntlet II, still managing to grasp a chart position.

Enduro Racer still at the top? Jeeez! You C64 owners are obviously won over more by price than quality. Only half of last month's entries remain this time around, and the proliferation of new budget games and rereleases have knocked some of September's high fliers right down among the dead men.

JULIAN'S TIPS

CITADEL: Activision's atmospheric search and destroy mission may well be kickin' heavy ass next month.
RESCUE ON FRACTALUS: Superb Lucasfilm space simulation. Why it isn't already in the chart is a mystery to me.
FORGOTTEN WORLDS: US Gold's fab arcade conversion should have made a big impact by November.

INDIANA JONES AND THE LAST CRUSADE: Now has the benefit of movie backing to help it sell.

As usual, the lion's share of the Spectrum chart is given over to budget games with only four full price games making it into the top 20. The top three haven't changed at all and Treasure Island Dizzy still hasn't moved from number one since the year dot. Are you guys buying more than one copy, or something?

JULIAN'S TIPS

New Zealand Story: The Spectrum conversion is out now and on its way to super stardom.
Dragon Spirit: I can see big things afoot for this smart-looking shoot 'em up.
Canyon Warrior: Hot little budget blast should muscle find its way into the top 20 somewhere.

OUTSIDE BET

Planet Ten: Seems a Speccy game's got to be cheap to succeed these days, and this novel 3D PacMan game is just that.

DIE ALIEN SLIME!

Mastertronic

After such a promising title, it was a bit of a disappointment to find that this is actually the slowest Alien Syndrome clone in the known world. In fact that's probably doing Alien Syndrome a disservice, because at least there's more to that game than wandering through an unchanging scrolling maze, shooting dots at blobby aliens.

The weapons at your disposal fire really slowly and even the most powerful lasers are little more effective than the initial dot gun. If there was more to the game than the weak blasting it might have been more fun, but as it stands it's not a bundle of laughs.

Nice music, but the bland graphics and gameplay will bore the snores out of you.

MONTE CARLO CASINO

Code Masters

Fix your gambling habit with this compilation of five neatly-integrated casino classics. Without the aid of a multiload the game provides Five Card Draw Poker, Roulette, Blackjack, Craps, and a Fruit Machine. Now, the really neat thing is that if you're unlucky at the Poker table you can quit and go to the fruit machine to try to top up your cash quota.

The separate games are nicely done, with animated dealers and players and clear icon selection systems. My only real complaint is that the fruit machine lacks any kind of nudge, hold or bonus features. Still, it's a surprisingly entertaining set of games for gamblers and non-gamblers alike.

AMSTRAD £2.99

Accomplished package of betting games which should help while away a wet afternoon, we'll wager.

KNIGHT GAMES

Mastertronic

Originally released in 1986, this game melds the two fads for sports compilations and beat 'em ups into a medieval tournament format. There are eight events in total, but when it comes down to it, the six duelling events vary only graphically, and there are no tactical differences in the gameplay. The two target shooting games are very similar to each other as well.

Backdrops and knight sprites are pretty and David Whittaker has provided some bouncy medieval electro-bops, but the gameplay is tedious. The drawn-out multiload doesn't help either.

AMSTRAD £2.99

Gameplay is the same as the C64 version, only slightly slower and with more blotchy graphics. The high-pitched warbly music will give you a headache, too.

Not actually bad, but Knight Games is too boring to be fun for very long. Three quid is all it's worth.

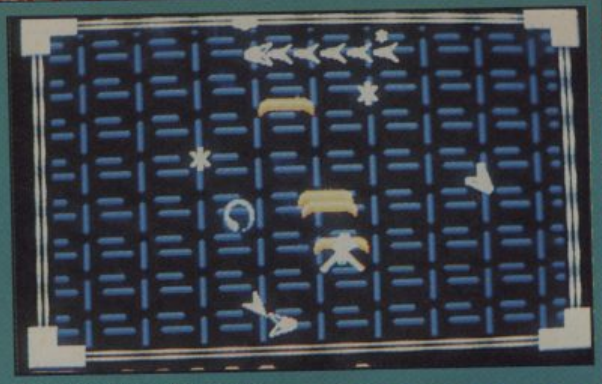
SUPER GRID RUNNER

Llamasoft



Back in '82 when programmers were real programmers, Jeff Minter crammed this, the original Fast Blast, into 3.5K on a VIC 20. Now he's got half a meg of memory and a 16 bit processor to play with, Minter has been able to improve on this classic with extra weapons, new enemies and beautiful psychedelic graphics.

The mouse zips your grid ship and its detachable R-Type-esque nose-cone around the whole screen, onto which swarm a multitude of snakes, bugs, space-craft, Pink Floyd logos, Eyes-of-the-Storm - the list goes on, but grows weirder. There's no hope of a nanosecond's peace until every one's blasted, and even then you're not safe because Jeff has put in some nasty surprises to get you just when you're feeling smug.

This is Minter at his very best - non-stop laser fury with addiction guaranteed and a price tag to suit the tightest of pockets. Make like the Yak and go fur it!

PLANET TEN

Mastertronic

How times have changed. There we were back in '83, playing PacMan's Twin Brother in only two dimensions! Luckily, in these more enlightened times we can enjoy the same game in 3D, and actually be inside the maze with the ghosts and the power pills.

Planet Ten's 3D bit is very well done indeed, and the depiction of ghosts sneaking up on you around corners, and of disembodied eyes flitting back to the base is quite amusing. The PacMan bit is the same as it ever was, though, so it's a case of, if you liked the 2D version before, you'll love Planet Ten. Otherwise the simplicity of it all may become quite tedious after a while.

PacMan in 3D - beautifully done, but it's still just a game about running through mazes and eating dots.

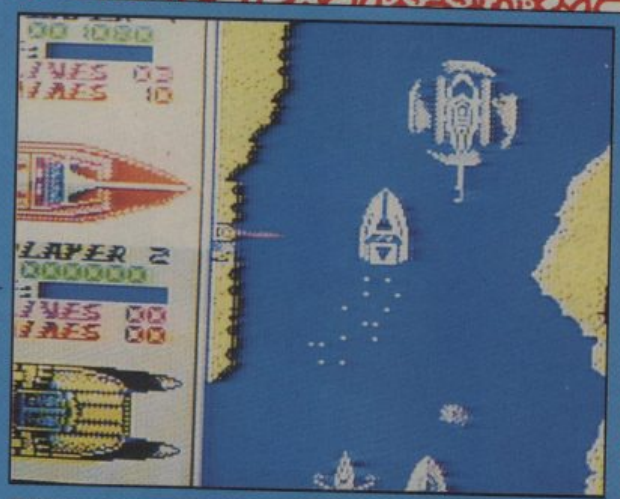
PRO POWER-BOAT SIMULATOR

Code Masters



Have you ever seen a professional powerboat? Code Masters once again redefine the word "simulator", this time as "two-player, vertically-scrolling, bump-the-other-boats- off-the-course, race-and-drop-mines game." But let's not pour scorn on PPS because it really isn't such a bad game.

Pick up the flags, collect the fuel, drop mines on the opposition, dodge the helicopter and, er, that's about it, really. Still, the graphics are nice and smooth, sound isn't bad, and the gameplay is quite good fun while it lasts, so, hey, why not give it a whirl?

SPECTRUM £2.99

Neat little racing game which definitely provides three quid's worth of fun.

CANYON WARRIOR

Mastertronic

Scream up the canyon! (Silence)! Let rip with your laser cannon! Klik! Take out those spaceships! Thputch! It's a shame the Spectrum's sound generator can't provide shoot 'em ups like this with the oomph to shell shock the player, because in all other respects Canyon Warrior is a riotous blur of blasting.

There's a sizeable horde of marauders to murder and even a few weapons to pick up, but the small screen area leaves no leeway in the canyon for klutzy pilots. It's dead easy to shoot the pick-ups before you get to pick them up, and even easier to crash and get sent way back down the level. Aieeee!!

A smart laser orgy for sharp shoot 'em up fans. And let's not forget the full-function map editor!

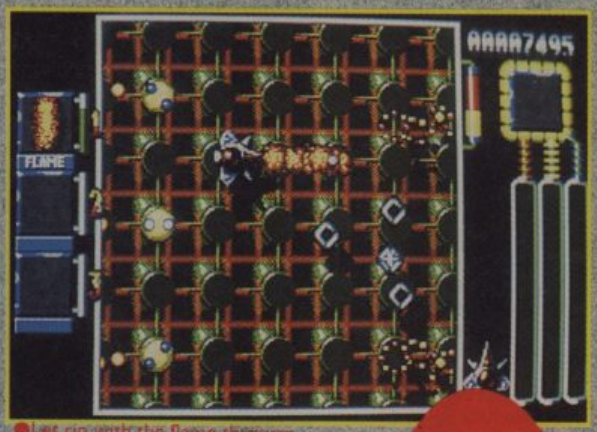
QUA

BY FIREBIRD

This is Paul Shirley's first foray into the 16 bit games scene, having written 8 bit classics such as Confuzion and Spindizzy. Drawing inspiration from a wide variety of other games, Quartz is a progressive shoot 'em up which revolves around the Lattice, an eight-way parallax scrolling Asteroids clone.

There's no plot to speak of, but the action is set in a world of Quarks, Hadrons and Neutrinos. Hadrons (yellow, red or blue big rocks) decompose into Quarks (similarly coloured smaller rocks) when shot - both of these are only found on the Lattice, which appears every other level.

Neutrinos, the product of shooting Quarks or whole formations of aliens, are used to buy any one of 12 types of power-up - but only when you've collected enough. Items you can purchase include eight-way fire, smart bombs, a flame thrower, outriders, ship repairs and a pod which allows extra weaponry to be fitted. You eventually need one or more of these, because the standard issue pea shooter you're given at the start isn't very impressive.



●Let rip with the flame thrower

●Entering the realm of the spinning pl

Apart from the Lattice there are four basic game types, each of which scrolls in a different direction. The first is the Atomic Zone, combining a mixture of revolving fire-chains inspired by Super Mario Bros and some annoying alien attack formations. An asteroid field comes next, with rocks coming out of the screen towards you, followed by the Lair, a world of mechanical and electrical enemies. Finally, there's the Organic Zone, populated by insects and pulsating, pus-spewing hearts. Nasty stuff.

●Collecting neutrinos for extra power

For all its graphical excellence and neat way of combining five games, Quartz is a little slow: it's more of a tactical game than a pulse-racing blaster. Even so, the variety of sub-games and the need to survive to collect enough neutrinos provides a lasting interest that more standard shoot 'em ups lack.

Smooth and colourful eight-way parallax scrolling and a great soundtrack make Quartz immediately appealing, a feeling that doesn't wear off for some time. PAPER BOY

BY ELITE

The original 8 bit versions of this crumbly classic appeared almost three years ago, and sold in vast quantities despite some lukewarm reviews. Does the Amiga version earn a loud hurrah or a miserable moan? Read all about it...

You play a pretty cool dude astride a three-speed delivery bike, skillfully lobbing rolled newspapers into your patrons' porches or mailboxes (the latter give you a bonus). Fail to deliver and they'll cancel their order. Find a house that reads a different kind of paper, and you can break their windows for bonus points. Fair enough.

At the end of your deliveries, it's off to the BMX stunt track to get some target practice in, just for kicks and bonus points. Crash or run out of time and you won't get the adulation of the greasy groupies waiting for you at the finish line.

Each day your success is measured by the number of customers left; lose them all and it's shame, humiliation and unemployment. At the end of each week you move on to the next, harder level.

Life as a paperboy isn't as much fun as it seems, though. Plenty of nerds populate the neighbourhood, lolloping out in front of the bike, letting their kids run riot with remote control racers, unleashing mad dogs and deadly lawn mowers and trying to squash you with their motors. Hit any of these and it's time to get a new bike - and you only have five.

This has got all the addiction and frustration of the coin-op, but the gameplay elements have been changed, unfortunately to its detriment. Fans of arcade Paperboy should warm to it, but the rest of you might want something a bit more substantial for twenty-five quid.

▲ Burnin' up the BMX track!

▲ Hit the targets for bonus points.

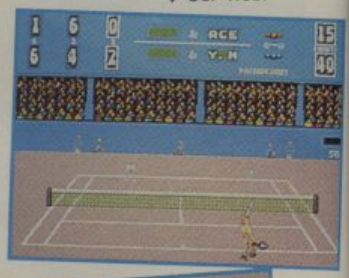
PASSING SHOT

BY IMAGE-WORKS

▼ Ser-vice!



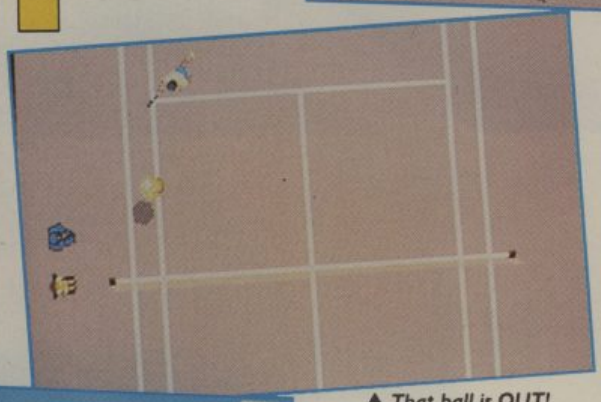
Woah! Don't put your Fred Perry shorts and Boris Becker wig away yet! Wimbledon might be over, but the tennis goes on, this particular ball being in Imageworks' court.

Teque (Blasteroids and Thunderbirds) have programmed the conversions of this Sega coin-op which lets you play in a world grandslam tournament against teams of computer players, with or without a human doubles partner.

After selecting one of four computer skill levels, it's straight down to the court, where you get a 3D Dan Maskell view of the action. Press the fire button to launch the ball into the air, then push up on the stick to hit it across the court.

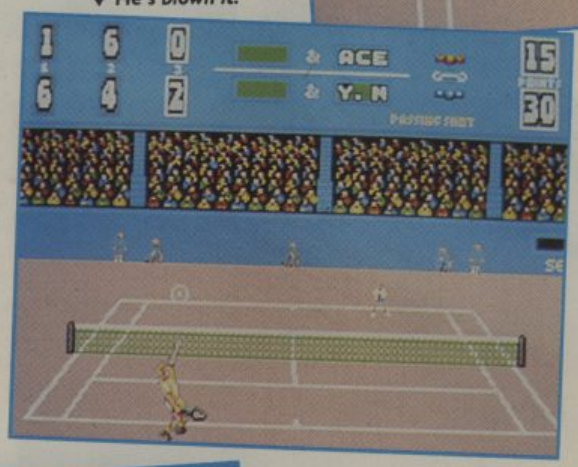
After you've served, the screen switches to an overhead view, which scrolls to follow the ball. Just like the real thing, the point of the game is to hit the ball back at your opponent, or in fact, past your opponent. To make it even more realistic, your racquet-play extends to a host of different shots - lobs, drop-shots, volleys, forehand and backhand smashes and the eponymous passing shot - all selected by holding the stick in a certain direction as the ball is hit.

The standard rules of tennis apply, and there's even an umpire presiding, who lets you know just why your opponent's trouncing you. Funny thing is, though, some of his decisions seem to be the sort of rulings that even Bjorn "Ice Cool" Borg could get justifiably miffed with - like calling aces after the ball's only bounced once.



▲ That ball is OUT!

▼ He's blown it.



That, I could just about live with, but far more annoying is this. The screen doesn't show enough of the court at any one time, so by the time it's scrolled far enough for you to find your player, it's often too late, and you're too far away to reach the ball.

This is a shame, because aesthetically, Passing Shot is quite competent - detailed and well-animated sprites and passable music. Unfortunately, the gameplay is so annoying that before long the disk is sure to go the way of a McEnroe racquet.

PAUL GLANCEY

Teque are also producing versions for the Amiga, C64 and Spectrum, and while the graphics and sounds will vary with machine, the basic problem of screen shape will probably trouble them all.

●A spikey thing in hot pursuit.

MAZE-MANIA

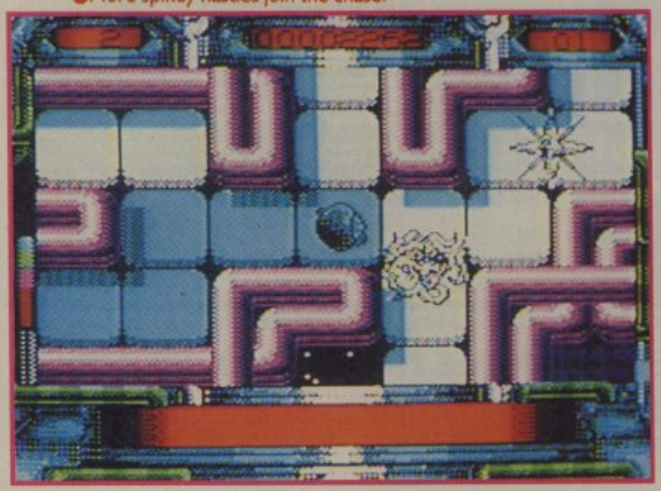
BY HEWSON

PacMan-style games come and go and, as the saying goes, here comes another one. This time the scenario reads that Flippo, a kind of hedgehog with two legs cut off, has to find his way out of the Mazes of the Upper Plane.

He does this by walking over tiles, which then flip over and change colour. Once all the tiles in the current maze have been flipped correctly, he can leave for the next via a mysterious flashing teleporter.

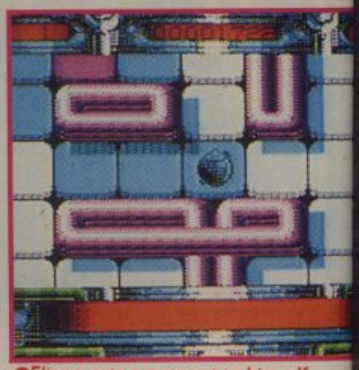
Things aren't as simple as they first seem, though. Our flipping friend only has a limited amount of energy, and there are plenty of aliens around willing to do him in. If he gets caught too many times, he loses one of three lives. Fortunately, extra lives are available in the form of Flippo icons; you can also pick up a lightning icon which gives you extra energy, and a fist, which allows you to stomp on lots of alien heads without losing strength.

●More spikey nasties join the chase.



UPDATE

Other 8 bit versions are still under development for the same price as the Spectrum, and the 64 version promises an additional bonus section. On 16 bit the game hasn't yet been started and no prices are available, but it should feature twenty levels.



●Flippo gets a moment to himself.

In addition, there are some tiles which change colour every time you flip them, and others that can only be turned when walked over from one direction. And woe betide the Flippo that falls down a hole, for his life is quickly snuffed out.

And that's all there is to it. Flippo is very similar to US Gold's Skweek, but unfortunately Skweek is cuter, has far more levels and a greater variety of bonus icons. Although it's a nice enough game, Mazemania is just too repetitive and simplistic for the price.

BOM

BY ACTIVISION

Twelve months ago, Vektor Grafix, the programmers behind the 8 bit Star Wars conversions, started work on programming routines which would display filled 3D objects faster and more accurately than ever before on a home micro. The culmination of their work comes with the release of Bomber, a flight simulation which features the best three dimensional aircraft graphics I've ever seen.

Unlike the Microprose simulations, Bomber doesn't put you over Libya or Vietnam, and is instead set over an area of about 1,000 square miles of the USA, encompassing North and South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana. The location isn't really that important to the game, as combat isn't intended to simulate what goes on in any particular war zone.

As with most flight simulations, after loading you're confronted with a host of options screens. Select one of eight stored pilots from the roster, pick an aircraft (there are seven planes of various nationalities, all beautifully depicted on this particular screen), then you can choose your mission.

By selecting the simulation option, rookie pilots can gain flight experience without having to undertake a mission. You can start from the runway, over nearby Rapid City, on final approach or from various other positions. Then you can just fly around, bombing the dinosaur park in Rapid City, buzzing farms and roadside gas stations, and just generally taking in the spectacular views, both internal and external.

Once you've had your fill of frivolous flying, select one of the ten graded-difficulty, multi-stage operations to test your skill. As well as having the usual SAM-smashing, tank-busting, runway-strafing, dogfighting missions, the 16 bit versions of Bomber include a mission designer, which lets you define target positions, the locations of airbourne refuelling tankers (the refuelling sequence is well worth seeing, incidentally) and other waypoints, then save them to disk for you or a friend to fly.

The flight controls on each of the seven planes are basically the same, but each has a different cockpit display, accurately reproduced from the real thing. If you've played any other recent flight sims you should be familiar with the layout and you don't miss anything when you're actually in the air. In fact, this even has the favourable effect of there being less to distract the pilot, so flying is much more fun.

▲ Hmmm... How about a US Navy Tomcat?

▲ Get yourself tooled up.

Apart from having stunningly detailed and realistic aircraft and scenery graphics (each plane is made up of at least 120 polygons), Bomber is great fun just to take a plane up and fly over to Devil's Tower (scene of Close Encounters' climax), drop a Durandal on a gas station occupied by terrorists, and swing back to base for a Bud in the Officers' Mess.

Myself, I prefer F-15 Strike Eagle II's depth and speed, but a novice flier looking for an easily-approachable, fun sort of flight sim would do well to check this one out (as long as they've got a fast VGA PC, of course).

PAUL GLANCEY

C+VG HIT!

UPDATE

We've seen demos of the other versions, and it transpires that the ST and Amiga versions have the same gameplay. They run slower, but there will be toggles to switch between levels of scenery detail. The 8 bit versions also feature filled-in 3D graphics, but the planes use less polygons (about 40) to keep the speed up.

POWER PLAY COMP

Power Play, the people behind the Crystal joysticks, have decided to bring Christmas forward three months and organise a fabulous competition with us. There's not one first prize. Not two. But three (count 'em) first prizes of PC Engines, that amazing pint-sized console that's currently regarded as THE hot gaming property!

And that's not all. There are also twenty runners-up prizes of Crystal joysticks, so even if you don't win an Engine, you could still improve your games playing abilities with a brand spanking new control stick for your computer.

Hurrah!

And all you've got to do to stand a chance of winning a prize is to count how many new PC Engine games are previewed in our free Mean Machines megamag that was given away this issue. Is it five? Is it ten? Well, count 'em, put the number on the back of a postcard or sealed-down envelope and send it off too: OH NO NOT ANOTHER GREAT LONG COMPETITION NAME FOR ROBERT AND GEORGE TO SORT OUT COMP, C+VG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON, EC1R 3AU. The closing date is October 16. After that we'll be putting all the entries into a big sack. The first three correct entries pulled out will win their senders a PC Engine, the next twenty will get joysticks.

Get counting.

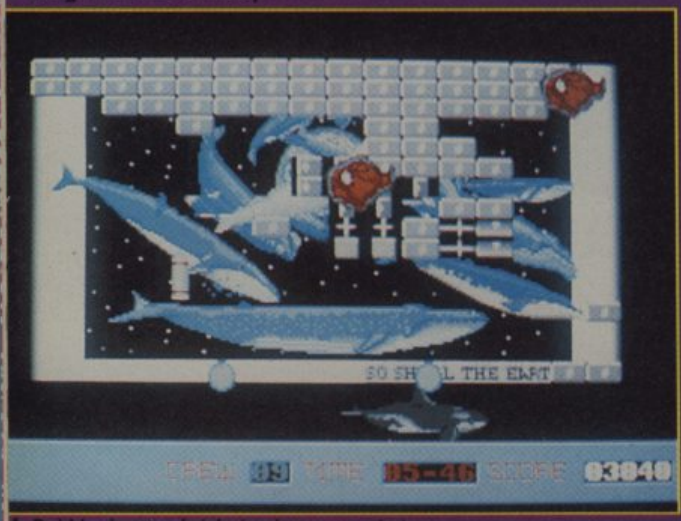
RAINB WARRI

BY MICROPROSE

▲ Dodge the rozzers to stop



▲ Bubbles busting bricks is what saves whales.

▲ The frogman bashes another waste pipe shut.

You can't have failed to notice that Britain has recently gone green - ozone-friendly hair-sprays, lead-free petrol, more votes for the Green Party, even previously ecologically-unsound people joining Greenpeace. Microprose probably come under the latter category, because Rainbow Warrior ("the Greenpeace game") is definitely a departure from their range of American Commie-killing battle sims.

Microprose hope that they can bring eco-awareness to the masses who would normally switch off at the sight of another Norwegian in an anorak spraying baby harp seals with green paint. The game is split into seven different subgames, each of which deals with a real Greenpeace campaign. Six of the seven can be selected from the opening screen, but you have to finish all of these before you can play the culminating game.

In Ocean Dumping, you control a team of eco-commandoes who have to board a ship dumping waste into the sea. Starting in a dinghy, your team has to climb on deck, then each stop a crane which is dropping barrels into the ocean. The crew of the ship aren't willing to help out, though, so you have to avoid the hose trained on your dinghy, dodge barrels, and the crew members who throw you overboard if they catch you.

Save the Whales is a sort of Breakout game, which puts you in control of a killer whale swimming about under a screen full of bricks. The objective is to completely uncover a picture of whales by blowing bubbles at the bricks to destroy them. Different icons drift across the screen, and if you bubble a good one (such as a Greenpeace dinghy) that icon will clear all the blocks it passes over. Hitting, say, a whale steak will cause it to restore blocks until it goes off screen. It's so easy to inadvertently hit the wrong object and suddenly rebuild a load of blocks that this game becomes quite frustrating.

The Acid Rain Campaign puts your team of activists at the foot of four chimneys which are spewing sulphur dioxide into the atmosphere. Periodically, a dinghy sails past carrying a banner bearing one of the letters in the words "STOP ACID RAIN". You have to collect all the banners and drape them across the top of the chimneys, while dodging a patrolling policeman, a large truck and a spanner-throwing worker.

Ozone Depletion takes your campaigners to the Antarctic where aerosols are roaming the atmosphere, knocking holes in it. To get rid of them, you have to chuck snowballs at them, otherwise radiation leaks to

▲ Thessel
▼ Ah! Mu

BOW IOR

▲ The vessel herself. Rainbow Warrior.
▼ Aiee! Mutie penguin attack!

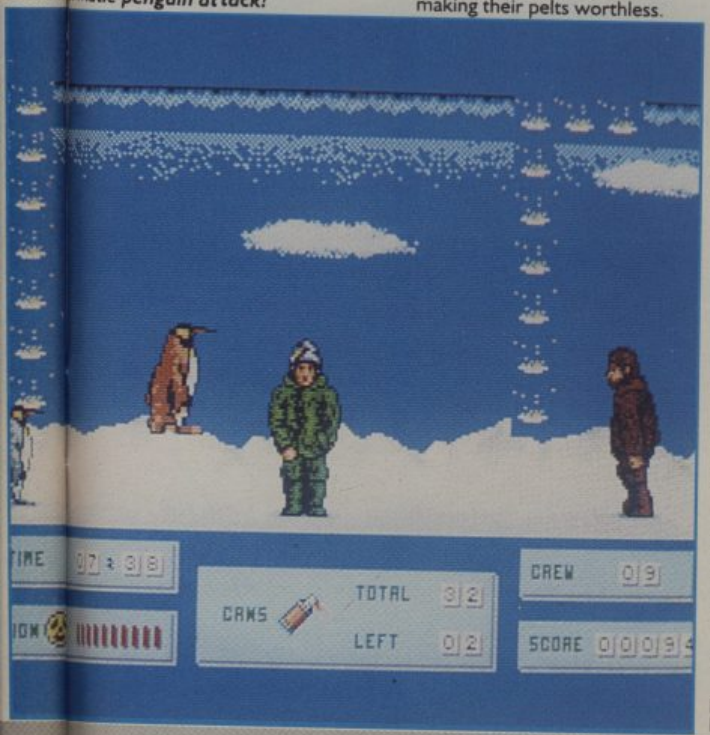
ground level, mutating penguins into homicidal killers, and doing your campaigner no good at all. Quite comical, as you can imagine.

Saving the Seals puts you on the ice floes of Canada, where hunters are out to cull seal pups for their skins. The only way to stop them is to spray as many seals as possible with green dye, making their pelts worthless.



Just leaping from floe to floe is dangerous enough, but running into hunters is fatal, and a missile-firing nuclear submarine also makes an appearance.

My favourite of the six games takes place in the Irish Sea, where low-level nuclear waste is being pumped out through pipe outlets. You control a dolphin, which leads a diver past radioactive seaweed, dangerous squids, jellyfish and sharks to the six outlets, where he can set to, hammering the pipe shut.

You're probably thinking that none of the above sound like earth-shattering computer entertainment, and taken individually they're not. However, as a whole, Rainbow Warrior is surprisingly enjoyable. None of the campaigns has any depth and they all seem terribly silly while you're playing them individually, but they're so light-weight that it's difficult to get really cheesed off with them.

The games alone aren't likely to turn you into Mr Ecology, but they do lead you to the beautifully presented and thought-provoking instruction booklet. This contains relevant statistics and case histories which make very interesting reading, educating the reader as to exactly what's wrong with the environment and what's being done to save it.

Twenty five quid is a lot to pay for a non-mainstream title like this one, but it manages to educate without indoctrinating, in a topic everyone should be fully aware of. And remember that part of the profits do go to Greenpeace for the purpose of saving the planet, which can't be bad.

If you want further information about Greenpeace's work, and how to become a member, you can write, enclosing an SAE to GREENPEACE UK, 30-31 ISLINGTON GREEN, LONDON, N1 8XE.

GO TO THE CIRCUS IN MOSCOW

To celebrate the launch of their brilliant new circus game, Fiendish Freddy (which was awarded a HIT! when reviewed last month), those lovely people at Mindscape have got an absolutely amazing competition lined up. They're going to send two people to the circus. Not some rubbish old Big Top jobbie, mind you, but the incredibly fab Moscow State circus!

The winners of this competition will spend a week in Moscow, and will be able to see all the sights of the soviet capital. And of course the highlight of this once-in-a-lifetime experience will be an evening at the World's most spectacular show, the Moscow State Circus.

All you've got to do to enter this comp is name three famous Russians. It's as easy as that. Put them on the back of a postcard or a sealed-down envelope and send them to: OOH-OOH COMRADE THE MOSCOW STATE CIRCUS SOUNDS A VERITABLE BIG TOP O' FUN COMP, C+VG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON, EC1R 3AU. All entries will be stuffed inside a furry hat, and the first correct entry pulled out will win its sender (and a partner) that fabulous trip to Moscow. Oh yes, please make sure that your entries arrive before Oct 16.

NOTE: THE WINNER MUST BE ACCOMPANIED BY AN ADULT.

REVIEW

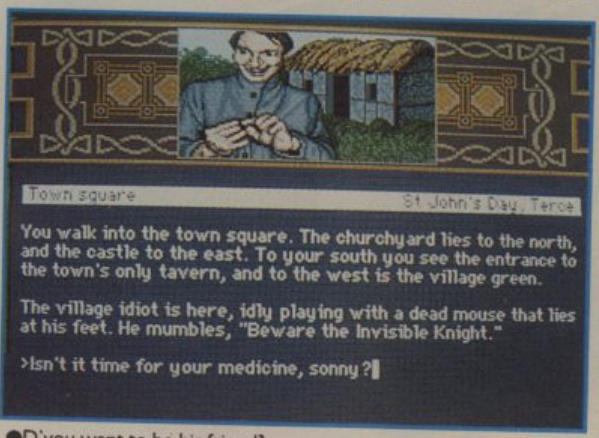
BY INFOCOM

Infocom has, from the beginning, had the uncanny knack of stamping its own brand of humour and puzzles on an adventure, irrespective of the underlying story. An Infocom adventure, whether it be a whodunnit or a science fiction thriller, can always be recognised, and its entertainment value almost always guaranteed.

Arthur, based on a mixture of legend and history, is no exception. Written by Bob Bates, whose last game was Sherlock (NOT the Melbourne House title!), Arthur starts with you as the young heir to the throne, witnessing King Lot stealing Excalibur, stone and all, and substituting a replica, thus claiming the throne for himself.

Your quest is to eventually expose him, and withdraw Excalibur from the stone yourself to regain your inheritance. But Merlin insists that you first go out and gain wisdom and experience, and become known to your people for your chivalry. The scoring system awards points for all these categories, and also for the quest itself. Though don't be mislead into thinking Arthur is a role playing game - it is an orthodox adventure.



●D'you want to be his friend?

An early visit to Merlin provides you with the key to overcoming many of the problems encountered in your pursuit of the throne. He bestows upon you the ability to transform yourself into different creatures: badger, owl, eel, turtle, and salamander. Around this magical power are based some very intriguing puzzles.

You can get into the castle, for example, as either a badger or an owl, but since you can't carry anything in those forms, you must leave in human form if you find any useful objects you want to take away. Only one problem here - how do you discover the password to get past the guard on the gate? And if you thought mazes were a thing of the past, the badger's den, consisting of twisty little passages all alike with exits in all directions may have you wondering if you're playing Colossal Adventure by mistake. Except that in this maze you are a badger, and a badger cannot carry any objects with which to mark the rooms...

●Merlin shows Arthur his magical weapon.

The third graphical Infocom adventure, Arthur has a different look from either Zork Zero or Shogun. The title bar is positioned halfway down the screen, displaying location, life form, and time of day. Below that the text part of the game is played, whilst above it the player has a choice of a cameo graphic of the location set in an heraldic banner, or alternatively, a mouse operated interactive map. This allows movement by clicking, whilst not obscuring the text as was the case in Zork Zero.

A hint system is built into the game following the usual format with one or two notable exceptions. The range of hints available increases to meet the player's needs at any given time. This means you won't start seeing clues for puzzles you have not yet come across, nor for puzzles that you are not yet in a position to solve. As comprehensive as they are, however, some hints do not give a complete answer, and leave the player to do at least some figuring out for himself.

It was the built-in hints that confirmed what I had suspected as a bug. In human form I was having difficulty in persuading my rescued prisoner to venture out into the castle courtyard, where he was frightened he would be recognised. A disguise of some sort seemed to be required, and this, indeed, was confirmed by the hint. But before reading the hint, I had accomplished the same thing by flying out as an owl, where he was quite willing to follow.

Still, buglets like this are the lifeblood of adventures, and it in no way detracted from a game that I feel ranks amongst the best from Infocom.

What should you do with the washing machine? Is Webba's map useful? What do you do when you're in Hades? All these questions and more are answered in this months fabulous adventure column. Take it away Keith Campbell...

ADVEN

THE STONE, THE BOULDER, THE CAVE, AND THE POOL

Lapis Philosophorum was never one of the world's most widely played adventures, but every now and again one of it's problems pops up in the Helpline mail, and this month brings a pig of a problem. Is there any adventurer out there who knows this game and could they tell Neal Pearson of Tokoroa in New Zealand, how to leave the city with some tools and a pig, without being beaten up by a bunch of drunken guards?

The Pawn is a great adventure, but some of its problems are a bit mind-boggling, with answers that are not at all obvious. Moving the boulder is a difficulty occurring early on, and not a lot of progress can be made until it is overcome. Again and again this problem crops up in Helpline letters, for although logical, the solution is fairly obscure. Individually, the rake and the hoe are not strong enough to move the boulder. Tie the rake to the hoe with your shirt or jeans, and use them together to lever the boulder out of the way.

How many people have come up against the spider blocking the entrance to a cave in King's Quest III? It's stopping Johan Molendijk of Brielle in The Netherlands from entering, just like it did to me! Who can help us enter, and also suggest a useful course of action in the shop and the pub?

Finn Rosenloev from Espergaerde in Denmark is playing Space Quest I. "When you reach the room after the sliding door opened by blocking the geyser, there is pool," explains Finn. "How do you enter it, and has it any use at all or is it just a joke?" he asks.

ROLE CALL

Infocom's Journey is a role playing game that initially plays as if it has few difficult puzzles. But it gets harder the further you get. "Journey is a game of great atmosphere and great text," writes Lior Meiry of Haifa in Israel. But Lior is completely lost in the maze that lies just in front of Astrix's tower. "How do you find your way through?" asks Lior, "Is Webba's map useful, or perhaps there is an alternative way to reach Astrix?"

Here's some help from Michael Howes who was stuck in Dungeonmaster a few months ago. "My bet is that Michael is stuck at the beginning of Level 6, in which case rock is not rock when it is a gem," writes John Yeates.

John goes on to advise Michael that the door at the bottom of the stairs is almost certainly the one with the star shaped lock, leading to Firestaff, in which case he needs the RA key.

Recognise the name? If you've read C+VG for a number of years, you'll remember that John was once renowned in these pages as "the loony Pimaniac from Jersey". But John is not as stupid as he used to make out - he is just about to start his second year studying Computer Science at Sussex University. "Does anybody out there know where all the secret rooms are?" he asks. "There are loads of things like Speedbow and the special swords, but I can't find all of them."

PLAYED BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

Recently released Deja Vu II - Lost In Las Vegas, takes you through the further adventures of private eye Ace Harding. Waking up in a Las Vegas hotel bathroom with a chronic hangover, you vaguely remember being abducted from Chicago by two of Tony Malone's thugs. It seems he thinks you owe him over $100,000, a sum unaccounted for by Joey Siegel, the racketeer of whose murder you were acquitted in Deja Vu I. You'd better get that dough to Malone in one week, or it's "or else" for you.

The seven dollars in your pocket won't go far if you're planning a visit to the hotel's casino to get you out of trouble. Still, who knows, there may be ways and means of making it go a bit further...

Deja Vu II is the latest of Mindscape's icon-driven adventures. Almost the only words you have to type from the keyboard are ones you actually want to say to a character. Effectively the game is played entirely by mouse, dragging items from window to window to take or drop them, clicking on exits to open or pass through them, or selecting a verb from the word list provided and then clicking on an object to complete the command.

There's plenty of animation, particularly at the station. For example you'll see the whole train move away from the platform. If you have an ST you'll hear the steam engine puffing away after the guard has called "All Aboard", but not if you are playing the Amiga version, though, which is silent.

A slick private eye adventure that should prove every bit as popular as its forerunner, Deja Vu II is from Icom Simulations/Mindscape, and available for Atari ST, Amiga, PC, Apple II, and Macintosh, priced 24.99.

HOME GROWN

River Software is one of the home grown mail order software companies that has been keeping Spectrum adventure fans supplied with good quality low-priced titles for some time. Now branching into the 16-bit market, River has recently launched a trilogy of conversions for the ST, and I'll be taking a look at these next month. Meanwhile, Bounty Hunter is a brand new Spectrum text adventure just released.

Beaming down to the Sea Of Stones on the planet Karakara, your task is to destroy twenty two Viroids. Viroids are neuro-viral life forms developed by the War Federation, and these were in transit to Federation HQ when the cargo ship carrying them crashed on Karakara.

Equipped with a War Federation briefing and a map of the planet, both of which come with the package, you must seek out the Viroids and then use your Pulser to destroy them. The adventure map is very realistic, consisting of "fuzzy" locations that line up with general areas shown on the hard copy map, and defined in the game by on-screen coordinates.

These are displayed in a strip separating location details from text messages. The strip also shows the number of Viroids remaining, the number of teleport PACs you have left, and a range indicator that starts flashing as you get near a Viroid. When using a Pulser or a PAC, these statistics are ingeniously replaced by scrolling messages emanating from your WATCH (Wrist Analogue Teleport and Communications Hardware).

But the game isn't simply a matter of stumbling blindly around until you find a Viroid and then firing at it. Your equipment may indicate the presence of one in the area, but actually reaching it will inevitably require solving a number of typical adventure problems.

Bounty Hunter maintained my interest, and it's an original and well produced adventure. It is available for the Spectrum from River Software, 44 Hyde Place, Aylesham, near Canterbury, Kent CT3 3AL, priced 3.50

THE ADVENTURE HELPLINE

You've spent good money on an adventure game, and you're thoroughly enjoying it, but now, only a short way into it, you've come up against a problem that is too baffling for you to solve. What can you do about it?
If you abandon the game, apart from the disappointment, it's probably 25 down the drain. But just because you can't solve it, doesn't mean others haven't, nor that you are not really up to playing it anyway. Different people are good and bad at different problems. So your other alternative is to seek help.
That is why we set up the Adventure Helpline back in 1983. We felt that a computer games magazine can offer its readers an invaluable service in this area, through the combined expertise and experience of both its writers and readers. Many software houses offer either a hint sheet service, or telephone helpline for their customers. However, Sod's Law says that the very problem you are stuck in will not be covered by the hint sheet, nor be known to the person who answers the phone.
Over the years, using a clues database written especially for the purpose, I have collected and collated over 2000 clues, which are augmented by thick files of maps, solutions, and hint sheets received from both software companies and C+VG readers. Write to me and you'll get a reply, even if it is to say that I can't help with your particular problem immediately. In this case I'll throw the problem out to the adventure fans who read this column. When I get an answer (and I usually get dozens!) I'll print it in the clues section.
OK, it may take a little while before you get the help you need, but the adventurer who seeks an instant answer to every problem that can't be solved within a couple of minutes, might just as well read a book! In fact, quite often adventurers solve their problems in the meantime. So much the better, for they will have gained more satisfaction in cracking the problem. But at least, having written in, you can be assured that help will be on the way eventually, and in the longer term, your game will not have been spoiled, nor your money wasted.
So drop me a line. Tell me where you're stuck, and help out with someone else's problem if you can. Or simply write to have a chat about the latest game you are playing. Just enclose an SAE to get a reply. Who knows, before long you might even see your name in print!
Send your stuff to Keith Campbell, Adventure Helpline, C+VG, Priory Court, 30-32 Farringdon Lane, London EC1R 3AU and I'll get back to you as soon as he can.
By the way, DON'T phone the C+VG offices - write!

AQUATTACK

Fed up with all those driving simulations? Then why not take to the water in Taito's brand new power boat shoot 'em up?

Those familiar with games like Apache 3, Thunderblade and Chase HQ will instantly warm to this as they whizz down a river in a very powerful speed boat. A steering wheel controls the boat's movement, while buttons next to it make the boat hop out of the water (useful for dodging the deadly debris that floats in the water), launch homing missiles and fire the boat's machine guns.

Why do you need all this armament? Well, there are lots of enemy hovercraft on the water which are after your blood. And just to make things worse they've got backup support in the air in the form of squadrons of missile-firing helicopters...

▲ Buzzed by gunships!

As you race down the river, you occasionally get to forks, one of which is chosen Outrun-style. At the end of each level (you've guessed it) is a big fat giant mothership which must be destroyed to go onto the next level. These aggressors range from huge hovercraft to giant helicopter gunships - it's kill or be killed.

Aquattack is an enjoyable and challenging shoot 'em up. The 3D graphics are slick and colourful, the sound is very impressive, and the action is varied enough to please both driving and shooting fans.

RAMBO

A new shoot 'em up out in the arcades is Rambo III, the coin-op of the rather unsuccessful film. As you can imagine, you play Rambo, and have to blow up as many people as possible - just like the movie!

▲ Don't push him!

The game uses a Cabal-type 3D viewpoint from behind the hero. Baddies on foot and in various military vehicles attack Rambo from all angles and attempt to wear down his energy bar, which results in the end of the game.

While the game doesn't score any marks for originality, the action is fast and frantic and it's very playable. Try it out if you like Operation Wolf games - or as Rambo would say, "mmrgh fwrl wugglemrr brrr".

VIOLENCE FIGHT

▲ Pick a thug, any thug.

If you fancy taking out a bit of aggression on a computer opponent, this is the place to do it. Featuring large characters, Violence Fight is a one-on-one beat 'em up in a very similar mould to Capcom's Street Fighter.

At the start of the game, one or two players select a character, and the action begins. There's a variety of moves made available to the players, with all manner of kicks and punches. The idea is simple - just wear down your opponent's energy meter before he wears down yours. Succeed and it's onto the next, more adept opponent. Fail and it's game over.

Violence Fight is a tough beat 'em up, but the neat animation and clever use of graphics results in a highly entertaining fighting game.

The storm has broken. MicroProse's latest title is here.

This high technology simulation of strategy and tactics is based on one of the most dramatic and detailed stories of modern warfare – Red Storm Rising, the international best-seller by Tom Clancy and his technical collaborator Larry Bond.

Working with the authors, MicroProse have brought the book's intense action and excitement to your computer screen. You are put in command of an American nuclear attack submarine at a time when the two super powers collide.

Standing between the Russian bear and global domination, you play a crucial role in the conflict. Missions take you to an astonishing variety of undersea environments, plunging you into challenging and exciting situations.

Prepare for action in this heart-pounding simulation. Available for Commodore 64/128 Cassette £14.95, Disk £19.95.

RASTAN II

Taito's ever-popular hack 'n' slash merchant returns in this game of mythical monsters and loads of swordplay.

The gameplay is very much like its predecessor, with muscle-man Rastan strolling along the horizontally scrolling landscape brandishing his sword and swiping at everything that gets in his way. But unlike the original Rastan, two players can fight at once, the second person taking the role of Rastan's twin brother - which is great fun.

There are hordes of horrible creatures to slay, and the action gets pretty busy as you attempt to stop the evil monsters from wearing down your energy bar.

Both the graphics and sound are very high quality, and the gameplay, especially in two-player mode, is enjoyable and addictive enough to keep you reaching in your pocket for more coins.

If you liked Rastan, don't miss this.

ARCHRIVALS

▼ Jump for it!

Bally have been very quiet lately, but they've returned with a brand new basketball game. Featuring big, nicely animated sprites, Arch Rivals lets you battle against a series of computer teams, or play against another player.

The gameplay is swift-paced, and the control method is easy to get used to, with an intelligent system used to pass and shoot the ball. Stringing together spectacular moves is very straightforward, and even novice players can soon play like the Harlem Globetrotters!

While basketball fans will doubtless go ape over this new coin-op, those less enamoured with the sport won't be so keen to part with their ten pences.

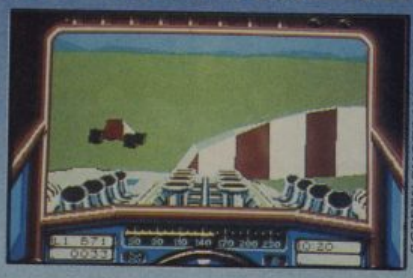
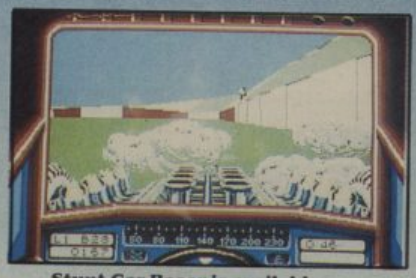
STUNT CAR RACER





SCREEN SHOTS MAY VARY

Step into the driving seat of one of the most wicked stunt cars around as a Stunt Car Racer. It's now up to you to prove just how good you are and to see whether or not you can ultimately become Division One Champion.

With a super-quick, turbo-charged V8 engine that will power you to incredible speeds, and long-travel suspension that enables you to soak up the bumps, your car really is an awesome projectile. The tracks are totally out of this world. Banked corners that enable you to 'pull g', undulating bumps that throw your car uncontrollably from side to side and huge ramps that catapult you into mid-air. In fact, you seem to spend so much time airborne, you could almost qualify for a pilot's licence!

Battle it out on the track against other computer controlled rivals, such as, Dare Devil and Road Hog. Race and jump so fast that your car starts to break up under the strain and then accelerate even more. There's no prizes for being second best in this game – it's all or nothing.

Stunt Car Racer – do you think you could be up there with the best?

Stunt Car is utterly brilliant and offers adrenalin-pumping, gut wrenching high speed action that'll keep you engrossed for months. C + VG.

Stunt Car Racer is available for ST, Amiga, PC, Spectrum and Commodore 64

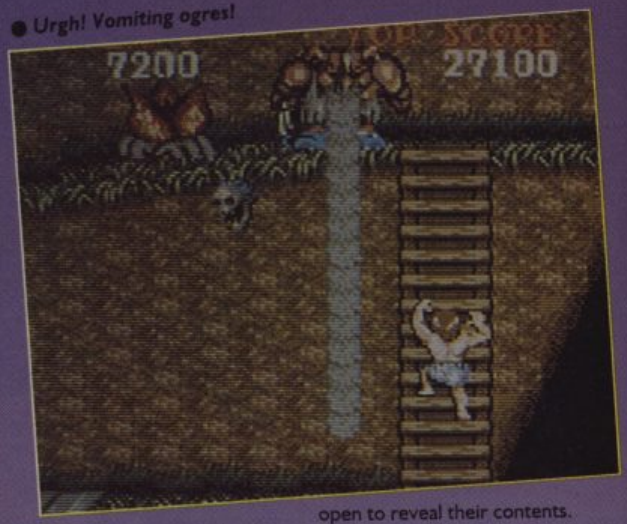
GHOULS 'N' GHOSTS



● Urgh! Vomiting ogres!

This is a conversion of a Capcom arcade hit from last year - the sequel to the classic Ghosts 'n' Goblins. As in its predecessor, the player in Ghouls 'n' Ghosts is cast as a knight on a quest through the spooky cohorts of the local demon, who has captured a princess. He's an athletic sort of chap, and even though he's wearing heavy plate armour he can run and jump like a frog on amphetamines. For protection, he keeps a magic weapon about his person at all times.

These weapons come in chests which have to be shot open to reveal their contents. They range from rapid-fire daggers, to razor-tipped throwing shields, but to add further to your arsenal, there's magic armour which lets you "power-up" and unleash mega-destructive spells.

Wicked sorcerers also like to hide in the chests, though, and if one is released he casts a spell which can change our hero into an arthritic old man or a duck

● He's BEHIND you!

● Power UP!

● Do those vultures know something

for a while.

The first part of his mission sees the knight crossing a scrolling graveyard, fighting against the wind in a stormy forest and then climbing a mountain, a trip which pits him against grim reapers, goo-vomiting ogres, groping tentacles and skull-spitting plants. If the knight runs into a baddie his armour is knocked off and he has to run around in his Y-fronts until he can pick up a new suit!

At the end of the first stage the knight has to fight a far-from-jolly green giant. If he can get past him his quest then takes him past windmills, across ropey rope bridges and shaking ground, over pits of flame, and up on a rising floor onto which crawl huge, legless knights.

That takes you as far as level three, but what is beyond that I cannot say because Ghouls 'n' Ghosts is a flipping hard game, about as tough as the coin-op in fact. The monsters are just so mean, and every time the knight gets killed, he's sent back half a level! But in spite of the difficulty, I find myself unable to leave this game alone. Because you have to be on your toes every picosecond, there's a real sense of challenge and you have just got to keep playing if only to see what the next bit looks like.

The graphics are arcade perfect, right from the scrolling scenery (check out the swaying trees, the flying leaves and the pouring rain in the forest on stage one), to the nasty ghoulies and end of level demi-demons. But even the graphics are surpassed by the eerie pipe organ music and stunning sound effects - they are simply incredible.

In the light of the first few Megadrive releases, I had some doubts about whether it would be a serious competitor for the PC Engine, but those doubts are now gone. Ghouls 'n' Ghosts might cost over forty quid, but since you're basically buying exactly the same game that's in the coin-op cabinet, I can't really call it expensive!

YAKSA

BY WOLF TEAM

"Space Harrier" is the first thought that crosses your mind when you press the START button on Yaksa. Running over a stripy landscape, blasting monsters that zoom at you from the horizon - all familiar stuff. Or so I thought...

The star of this show is the eponymous Yaksa, a Japanese Hippy swordsman with the widest pair of bell-bottoms in the province. He can run and leap into, and even out of the screen as he takes on the encroaching hordes of Napalm Ninjas, disembodied Samurai heads, skeletons with sabres, fireballs and winged demons.

The sword is a pretty inadequate weapon because it's only effective when monsters are very close. Fortunately, littering the landscape are stone idols which yield magical weapons and abilities, such as multi-way fireballs and super leaps when Yaksa runs into them. The effectiveness of each weapon depends on Yaksa's power level, shown as a bar which shrinks as he runs into hostile fire.

At the end of each stage, there's a boss monster, for which Yaksa needs all the extra firepower he can muster. At the end of level one, he has to fight a fire-spitting dragon for a good couple of minutes - and that's if he's got four-way fireballs! If he's only carrying his sword, forget it. Level two's main monster is a comparatively easy tentacled blob, but after leaping along level three's mid-air causeway, you have to take on a pair of giant crabs which are even tougher than the dragon!

▼ RUN AWAAAY!!

▲ Meet the fire-gobbing demons.

The monsters, both large and small are nicely drawn, but the way they're animated is not so good. Most don't have more than a couple of frames of animation, and only the Yaksa sprite moves around the screen with any semblance of smoothness. To keep the speed of the game up, everything else jerks around the screen so badly that it is difficult to work out where the hell anything is meant to be in time for you to shoot it. Ruining the visual impression (not to mention the gameplay) even further is the very ropey 3D display system, which gives apparently stationary objects like the idols a life of their own. Jumping from platform to platform in level three is a nightmare, because you're often unsure where the next platform is supposed to be!

Yaksa has a few redeeming features, such as the level password system and the short-lived soundtracks. But with the odds so heavily stacked against it, not even these can save Yaksa from the kind of mediocrity we don't usually associate with PC Engine games.

WORLD CUP SOCCER

▲ Bit of a goalmouth fracas.

Football fans will rejoice when they hear that there's now a soccer game on the Megadrive. World Cup Soccer (for that is its name) lets you (and a friend if you've got two controllers) play your own World Cup tournaments or friendlies with other teams from around the world.

Options at the start let you choose a one or two-player game or a World Cup tournament. The tournament is basically a simulation of a real World Cup, with the player's team having to play against computer teams in group, quarter and semi-final matches to get to the final itself (but that's only if you come first or second in your group).

Before a match begins you first choose a team by pointing a cursor at a map of the world. Each country has a rating - Brazil is one of the best, while Japan and China aren't much cop. Once you've chosen your country you can pick a team from a series of menus showing goalies, attackers, defenders and midfielders.

If you're playing a World Cup tournament, the team groups are randomly selected before play begins - if it's a friendly, play starts straight away.

The game uses an overhead viewpoint most of the time, but for penalties, corners and goal kicks a 3D view is used. The control system is intelligent, with all three joypad buttons used to give shots at goal, high kicks and short kicks. Players can also volley, head and do overhead kicks! This might sound complicated, but it doesn't take long to get used to it.

The action is fast and furious, and the ball spangs around the screen at very high speed. In fact it almost seems too fast at first, but the speed makes the gameplay more exciting - you've always got to be on your toes, and there's never any time to hang about.

The computer opponents range from fairly hard to mega tough - you're not going to win the World Cup overnight, that's for sure. The sheer amount of options, and the random World Cup (just hope you don't get put in the same group as Brazil and Argentina) result in a game that football fans won't get bored of for a long time.

OCEAN

The Spectrum and Commodore versions of this film tie-in were reviewed at the beginning of this issue - but how are the ST and Amiga versions coming along?

Well, both feature five levels of action, and have similar platform-style scenes to the Spectrum and Commodore versions, but the Batmobile and Batwing sections have been specially improved to utilise the ST and Amiga's superior processing power.

The Batmobile section is now like a mini Chase HQ, with a stunning 3D view used as the amazing Bat-vehicle zooms down the streets of Gotham city, while the Batwing level is very reminiscent of Afterburner as the craft flies low over the carnival floats severing balloons filled with nerve gas.

Batman looks like it'll cause a major sensation when it's released on the ST and Amiga - if you're a Batfan who owns either of these machines, make sure you get hold of a copy!

Last month we printed a picture of the ST version of Cabal, which is coming along very nicely. Now we've managed to track down screen shots of both the Spectrum and C64 versions, and as you can see for yourselves, they're looking like they're going to be very good copies of the arcade game.

If you didn't see last month's issue, you won't know that Cabal is a shoot 'em up in which one or two commandos take on an entire army over a variety of 3D scenes. The action is fast and furious, and there's loads to shoot and even more things to avoid!

There'll be a review of Cabal next issue - keep your eyes peeled.

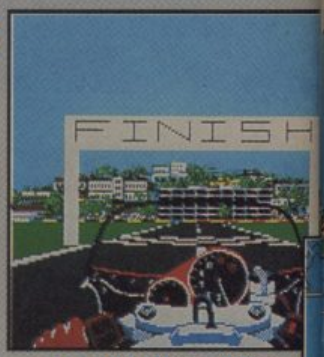
THE CYCLES
ACCOLADE



From the makers of Grand Prix Circuit and the Test Drive duo comes a two-wheeled road-racer. The Cycles gives you an unusual over-the-handlebars view of fifteen (count 'em!) celebrated cosmopolitan circuits in such exotic locations as Japan, Canada, Monaco and even good old Blighty. Other options include the ability to race at five different skill levels and in three different classes - 125cc, 250cc, and 500cc. Looks exciting, but we find that Accolade driving games always seem to be a little on the slow side. Will Cycles be different?

CONTINENTAL CIRCUS

VIRGIN

Virgin/Mastertronic's conversion of this great arcade driving game looking almost identical to the coin-op - just check out this ST screen shot pictured here.

The original arcade game featured real 3D graphics (of the movie kind), but the programmers have sensibly decided not to incorporate this in the conversions, and instead concentrate on producing as accurate a copy of [illegible] possible.

There are ten different tracks in all, and the conversion includes the pit stops and identical game-mechanics to the original machine.

Continental Circus will be reviewed next issue - watch out for it.

Hot from the keyboards of Italian programming house, Dragonware, comes a graphic adventure in a Magnetic Scrolls sort of vein. Ooze is the story of Ham Burger and his uncle Cheez (har har!).

Carfax Abbey, in rue Morgue 666 is infested by ghosts. Unlike ordinary spectres, this lot have a problem; they're haunted by the sort of baddie that would make Hellraiser look as soft as a jelly baby - none other than the terrible Ooze. Apparently all Ham needs to survive is courage, luck and a good sense of humour. Look out for Keith Campbell's review next issue.

M1 TANK PLATOON

MICROPROSE

There've been a spate of tank games trundling over from America during the past few months, but Microprose's promises to be not only the best tank simulation around, but also the best Microprose game yet. Their undoubted mastery of combat simulation programming has been concentrated on the M1 Abrams tank, which you can drive over the usual 3D warzones, taking out hostile jets, helicopters, infantry and artillery. What sets this game apart from the crowd is the control method, which lets you move between the four control stations (driver, gunner, etc) of not just one tank, but four! Apparently, tanks always travel in platoons of four, so designer Arnold Hendrick thought anything less would make the game unrealistic! So, as well as blamming the polygons off enemy vehicles, there's lots of strategy involved too. Next month we'll be reviewing the PC version which will be out first. Other versions are bound to arrive soon, but at present Microprose have no firm dates or prices

This, Lucasfilm's first cartoon adventure (Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade being the latest) didn't get the success it deserved when Activision originally released it on the C64 a couple of years back, mainly because it was a disk-only product. No such setbacks should trouble the ST and Amiga versions which US Gold are releasing soon. The game is a menu-driven animated adventure which puts you in control of four kids on a mission to rescue a kidnapped friend from a crazy scientist and his ugly sister.
